QUAKE CAUSES STAGGERING LOSS

Arms Embargo Act Is Upheld By Supreme Court

CONSPIRACY TRIAL FACED BY CONCERNS

Justices Prepare to Hear Arguments on Mortgage Moratorium Bill

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(UP)—The administration today won the approval of the supreme court in a case brought to test the validity of the prosecution of a group of airplane manufacturers and individuals on charges of conspiring to violate President Roosevelt's Chaco Arms embargo.

New Deal officials interested in foreign policy have watched the case with keen interest for its possible effect on present and future neutrality policies of the government.

Opinion in Broad Terms
The court's opinion was in broad terms. It was written by Justice George Sutherland and all members present excepting Justice James C. McReynolds concurred.

McReynolds, without opinion, held the legislation and proclamation should have been condemned.

The ruling compels the defendants to face a jury trial on charges of conspiring to sell 15 machine guns to Bolivia.

Those named in the indictment were:

Curtiss-Wright Export corporation, Curtiss Airplane and Motor company, Inc., Barr Shipping corporation, John S. Allard, Sam-

AMELIA HUNTS MISSING PLANE

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Amelia Earhart Putnam, America's premier woman flyer, today joined the hunt for a missing Western Air Express liner which vanished in a storm over central Utah early last Tuesday.

Miss Earhart, well-known to Salt Lake airport attaches because of her many landings here on transcontinental and other flights, arrived from Burbank, Calif., in a plane stunt flyer, who has assisted in the search since it began.

Miss Earhart and Mant took off to investigate a "hunch" that a report from a farmer at Brigham City, Utah, about 65 miles north of here, may be a lead to the whereabouts of the missing airliner.

The farmer, who said he couldn't remember the exact time, told of a heavy crash in the vicinity early Tuesday, when the ship disappeared enroute from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City.

Seventeen other ships concentrated today's aerial activities in the vicinity of Milford, Utah, about 200 miles southward, where the airliner last reported by radio.

NEW AIR WEAPON BEING DEVELOPED

PARIS, Dec. 21.—(UP)—The deadliest military weapon invented since the world war—an aerial mine towed on a cable by an airplane—is being developed in secret by two European governments, it was disclosed authoritatively today.

It was learned the Russian government is negotiating to obtain use of the weapon, which is designed to defend great cities from air attacks but can be used as an offensive weapon.

Specially equipped planes will rise at the approach of attacking squadrons. Once in the air, the mines would be lowered by means of an electric winch. Flying over the attacking airplane, the defending airplane could drag the mines into them. Thus, defending airplanes could quickly lower a screen of aerial mines.

As an offensive weapon, the aerial mine can be towed into a building, bridge, railroad or other target. The high explosives in each mine would destroy its target on impact.

Holdup Fails To Interest Driver of Cab

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(UP)—American bandits are not difficult to thwart but American taxicab drivers are not much help in a crisis.

While Mathis, singlehanded, fought and routed two bandits who tried to steal his wife's jewelry in a taxicab early Sunday morning, the cab driver sat quietly in his seat and ignored his fare's difficulties.

"I'm not trying to be a hero," the driver told Mathis.

F. D. R., LANDON SWAP STORIES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon came to the White House today and traded fishing stories with President Roosevelt.

In a highly informal meeting, Landon and the president sat around a table in the White House executive offices, "swapped fishing stories" and talked about their families.

The Kansas executive who called at the White House at the request of the man who defeated him last November 3 for the presidency, spent more than a half hour with Mr. Roosevelt.

When he came out he told newspaper men "we talked about Christmas and the children. The president talked about his grandchildren and I talked about my children."

"Did you discuss the campaign," he was asked.

"No," he said, "we just had a nice visit. We swapped fishing stories and just had a social call."

"Did the president express regret over your defeat," he was asked.

"He didn't seem to have any ideas like that," Governor Landon remarked with a grin.

GENERAL'S WIFE SEEKS RELEASE

SHANGHAI, Tuesday, Dec. 22.—(UP)—Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek, worried over the seizure of her husband, decided today to fly from Nanking to Sian-Fu, in Shensi province, and plead with young Marshal Shang Hsueh-Liang for the generalissimo's immediate release.

Madame Chiang's decision was made after a convocation of the powerful Soong family members, of which she is one of three daughters.

Her brother, T. V. Soong, Harvard-educated former finance minister, and W. H. Donald, Australian former advisor to the young marshal, announced they would accompany the generalissimo's wife to Sian-Fu by plane.

They hope for a peaceful solution of the crisis caused by the daring kidnapping of Generalissimo Chiang at the Shensi capital a week ago last Saturday, when Marshal Chang revolted against his authority and demanded immediate war on Japan and the return of his three eastern provinces, now called Manchukuo.

Madame Chiang's action followed more than a week of futile negotiations between the Nanking national government officials and the rebel "young general" in Sian-Fu for her husband's release.

SENATOR NORBECK RITES WEDNESDAY

REDFIELD, S. D., Dec. 21.—(UP)—Sen. Peter Norbeck, 66, Republican member of the U. S. senate for 16 years, will be buried Wednesday.

Norbeck died yesterday from a heart attack induced by epithelioma, a cancerous condition. His condition had been precarious for nine months.

Norbeck was governor from 1915 to 1920, when he went to the senate. Outspoken and independent, he persistently ignored party lines on pet issues and called himself a "Theodore Roosevelt Republican."

GROWERS TO STAGE FIGHT OVER FRUIT

Florida Exchange to File Formal Complaint Over California Ads

Big guns of orange growers of Orange county today were being trained on Washington, D. C., for a projected battle with Florida growers to protect the advertising of local products, an informal survey of farm administration offices revealed here today.

After pointing out that Orange county is one of the two largest orange-producing counties in the country, local officials said the fight was one in which the federal government is likely to become involved.

Formal Complaint Threat

According to the latest word received from Orange county representatives in the capital, the Florida Citrus Fruit exchange has sent emissaries to interview officials of the Federal Trade commission. The interview ostensibly will be to discuss the possibility of preventing the present system of advertising California oranges, which, the Florida growers contend, infers and sometimes openly claims that California oranges are the best in the country or the world, and therefore better than Florida oranges.

The Florida exchange has not filed a complaint against the California growers as yet, but it was learned on good authority in

OWNERS, UNION IN AGREEMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Shipowners and the Pacific Coast Marine Firemen, Oilers, Watertenders and Wipers' association today reached tentative agreement on all points of their dispute.

The agreement is subject only to ratification by men of the union, and followed swiftly the peace pact between the Sailors' union and the shipowners.

Definite Break

A spokesman for the employers was "a definite break" in the involved maritime strike.

"This settlement with the two unions is gratifying," said Thomas G. Plant, chairman of the coast committee for shipowners.

"With these important achievements behind us, I am hopeful that a settlement of all differences with the other marine unions can be speedily consummated."

Union Recognized

The complete agreement reached by the shipowners and the Sailors Union covered 12 pages. In it, the shipowners "agree to recognize the Sailors Union of the Pacific as the representative for

RUSSIA MAY SINK INSURGENT SHIPS

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Russian anger over reports that Spanish Nationalists set fire to a Soviet freight ship caused new fears today that the Spanish civil war might yet develop into an international conflict.

At Russia's request, Great Britain has consented to use its channels of information to aid in determining the ship's fate.

Pending definite evidence, Russia has decided to withhold a decision on action to be taken if its fears for the ship prove true.

It was understood that if it is proved that Nationalists set fire to the ship—possibly with loss of life—Russia may ask that all governments declare the Nationalist ships pirates, to be sunk on sight.

An alternative, even graver, would be that Russia might alone declare the Nationalist fleet pirates and risk a clash with warships of Italy or Germany, both of which are favorable to the Nationalists.

UNION, COMMITTEE HEADS WORK FOR PEACE

Representatives of striking seamen and marine firemen discuss terms that would bring maritime peace to the Pacific coast in a meeting with representatives of shipowners at San Francisco. Facing camera, left: T. G. Plant, chairman of the coast committee for shipowners, and T. B. Wilson, Seattle, member of the coast committee. With backs to camera: Harry Lundberg, secretary of the Sailors' union, and J. E. Ferguson, Marine Firemen's union.

POPE ARRANGES YULE MESSAGE

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Pope Pius XI, despite his illness, will broadcast a message to the faithful of the world on Christmas eve.

The message is expected to be an urgent appeal to humanity to cease warfare and live together in Christian peace.

The Pope is scheduled to begin speaking over the Vatican radio station at 12:30 p. m. Rome time (3:30 a. m. P.S.T.) on a wave length of 19.84 meters.

It had been strongly urged on the Pope to permit Cardinal Pacelli, his secretary of state, to deliver the message for him.

The pontiff, however, has long planned the address and persuaded his doctor, Prof. Amintore Milani, to permit him to do it.

The Pope consulted today with Father Soccori, director of the Vatican radio station, on whether a special telephone hook-up is possible to permit him to speak from his bedroom, and whether the address could be heard throughout the world.

While consulting Father Soccori, it was learned the Pope said with a twinkle in his eye:

"I want to broadcast so the entire world will know I am still alive."

FISHING VESSEL APPEALS FOR HELP

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec. 21.—(UP)—An S. O. S. message asking immediate aid was received at the coast guard station here today from the fishing boat, Pawtucket, which reported it was beached in Tyler cove on Santa Cruz Island.

TOWNSEND SAYS HE'LL NOT PAY CONTEMPT CHARGE FINE

By MALCOLM BOSTWICK

Interviewing that soft-spoken, affable "thin man," Dr. Francis E. Townsend, head of the Townsend movement, is as easy as the Dionne must have found it to interview old "Doc" Allan Dafeo, the country doctor from Callendar, back in those years, "B. Q.", Before Quintuplets.

And there's a reason, for "Doc" shake hands, personally with scores of followers but to hold an extra-special tete-a-tete with his pioneer friends who homesteaded with him back there in the Black Hills, along the western edge of South Dakota, where it meets the eastern edge of Wyoming—Postmaster and Mrs. Joseph D. Duer of Atwood.

"Yes, I'm just a country doctor—have been all my life, except what little time I practiced in Long Beach," Dr. Townsend declared in answer to a question.

"The fact that I was a country

Girl Friend Aided By Unloaded Gun

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Whenever his Fresno girl friend needed money, 21-year-old Robert Wilson, former CCC worker, took his empty pistol and staged a robbery, police alleged today after arresting Wilson and Katherine Foss, 21, Fresno waitress.

The youth, police charged, usually selected a victim who was entering a car, forced him to drive to a lonely spot, then robbed him and used the car for holding up service stations.

"Do you think I wanted to get hung?" he replied when asked why he always used an unloaded gun.

BRITE BROTHERS SEEK NEW TRIAL

YREKA, Dec. 21.—(UP)—John and Coke Brite, the mountain brothers who lost two battles with the state—one in the rugged ranges of Siskiyou county and the other in a murder trial—will file an oral motion for a new trial tomorrow as their last desperate hope of eluding the gallows for the so-called "Horse Creek massacre."

A jury of 11 men and women found them guilty Saturday night.

Horace Frye, chief of defense counsel for the doomed brothers, will base the motion on Section 1181 of the penal code, charging the jury obtained evidence against his clients out of court and that there was prejudicial misconduct on the part of the court.

Inasmuch as the Brites were found guilty of first degree murder on three counts, and there was no recommendation made for leniency, the death penalty will be mandatory.

CHRISTMAS PARTY PLANNED FOR DUKE

ENZESFELD, Austria, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Baron and Baroness Eugene Rothschild, hosts to Edward, Duke of Windsor, busied themselves today with preparations for a Christmas party designed to take the former British monarch's mind off his troubles.

Hours before the duke bestirred himself, numerous messengers arrived at the castle with big packages which were hidden away as soon as they were delivered.

But, in his enforced separation from Mrs. Wallis Simpson for whose love he left his throne, the duke already had the consolation of two presents—songs dedicated to him in honor of the sacrifice he made for love. One is "Poor Young King," the other "Come to Kitzbuehel."

SARGAS IS FATHER

BUDAPEST, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Magda Sargas, whose dueling husband won fame by challenging 100 men who said he married her for her money, presented him with a daughter today.

The 20-year-old debutante, who waived aside the protests of her wealthy, aristocratic family to wed a penniless writer, had wanted a daughter. She was afraid a son might try to emulate his dueling father.

Woman Held After Pilot Is Wounded

CHICHESTER, Eng., Dec. 21.—(UP)—A French aviator-engineer staggered from a plane near Paris yesterday with a bullet wound in his back. His woman companion threw a revolver to the ground, climbed forward from the rear seat into the pilot seat and took off.

Today the woman was under a doctor's care on the south coast of England, watched by police, while her wrecked plane lay on the beach, its fuel tanks empty. She had had a narrow escape from death in the channel.

In landing the plane, which she and Pierre L'Allement owned jointly, Mme. Schmeder-Capellut wrecked the propeller and the undercarriage.

L'Allement's bullet missed his spinal column by half an inch and that his wound was not serious.

L'Allement said that he was shot when the plane was 1500 feet up and that it was only by every exertion of will power that he was able to land.

STRIKE CRISIS EXPECTED SOON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(UP)—John L. Lewis and his Committee for Industrial Organization chiefs moved swiftly today toward decisive tests of union strength in the nation's key steel and automobile industries.

A high C.I.O. official said today that steel organizing tactics called for a minimum of minor walkouts. When steel union strength reaches a desired peak, however, a large-scale strike probably preceded by a general steel-workers convention is likely, the official said.

In Detroit the United Automobile Workers of America, backed by funds from the C. I. O., made the first move today in its drive for collective bargaining with General Motors by asking for a conference with executives of the automobile company.

In Pittsburgh company union representatives within 42 plants began "boring from within" to convert their organizations into units of John L. Lewis' C.I.O.

It was the most spectacular development in the committee's drive to unionize the steel industry and perhaps the most important. Two hundred and fifty men, elected under the company union plan (unions sponsored and in some cases financed by employers) as employee representatives, met and agreed to work for the organization of all steel workers into a national industrial union.

Those in attendance included four archbishops, 25 bishops and more than 300 priests representing the hierarchy of the Catholic church in the United States.

The Most Rev. Charles Hubert Leibold, bishop of St. Joseph, served as consecrator. He was assisted by the Most Rev. Francis J. Monaghan, bishop of Ogdenburg, N. Y., a former classmate of Father, and the Most Rev. Gerald T. Berger, bishop of Des Moines, Ia.

HOLD CEREMONIES FOR NEW BISHOP

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Dec. 21.—(UP)—The Very Rev. Charles Francis Buddy today was consecrated as first bishop of the diocese of San Diego, Cal., in solemn ceremonies here before dignitaries of the Catholic church.

Those in attendance included four archbishops, 25 bishops and more than 300 priests representing the hierarchy of the Catholic church in the United States.

The Most Rev. Charles Hubert Leibold, bishop of St. Joseph, served as consecrator. He was assisted by the Most Rev. Francis J. Monaghan, bishop of Ogdenburg, N. Y., a former classmate of Father, and the Most Rev. Gerald T. Berger, bishop of Des Moines, Ia.

40 Persons Hurt In Car Collision

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 21.—(UP)—More than 40 persons were injured today when two street cars, carrying a load of WPA workers, collided in a heavy fog. The accident occurred on the Lakefront line.

Many passengers were thrown against seats and windows, or hurled to the floor. Several were carried unconscious from the wreckage.

Julius Goldman, 33, a WPA worker, one of the injured, said it was so foggy the motormen probably could not see each other's cars.

RECOVER 70 BODIES FROM CITY RUINS

25,000 Made Homeless as 8 San Salvador Towns Rocked by Temblors

SAN SALVADOR, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Relief forces mobilized today to care for 25,000 persons made homeless in the worst local earthquake disaster since 1879. At least 100 were feared dead and upward of 500 were injured.

President in Charge

President Maximilian Hernandez Martinez took personal charge as reports from eight cities rocked by temblors over the week-end indicated staggering losses of life and property.

Relief workers, digging in the ruins of San Vicente, 13 miles east of here, said the death toll there would probably reach 100. They had recovered 70 bodies.

Communication with other stricken cities, all in the area of an "extinct" volcano near San Vicente, was interrupted, making a definite estimate of the dead and injured impossible.

San Vicente Razed

All that remained today of San Vicente, oldest city of the republic and capital of a rich indigo and tobacco growing region, with a population of 25,000, was a solitary, stone clock tower.

The first, and most severe temblor struck suddenly Saturday evening, shaking down houses and buildings.

It was followed at intervals Saturday night and Sunday by other quakes of varying intensity

WRECKAGE OF PLANE SIGHTED

SPOKANE, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Lt. Byron Cooper, Washington National Guard flier, reported to Northwest Airways today he had sighted its missing mail plane, a twisted mass of wreckage, on Cemetery Ridge, 12 miles southeast of Kellogg, Ida.

There was no sign of life about the plane, which was piloted by Joe Livermore and Arthur A. Haid when it disappeared enroute from Missoula to Spokane last Friday.

A. R. Mensing, N.W.A. official, said a group of men left Kellogg immediately to go on foot to the scene.

Cooper said the wings were 200 feet down the 4000-foot mountain-side from the main body of the Lockheed Electra monoplane. It was believed impossible that Livermore and Haid could have escaped death in the crash.

doctor in frontier country probably is the original reason for this plan. You see, the plan just evolved in my mind, over a period of years when I saw so many poor and suffering people who needed relief and needed it badly.

Cites Loss Of Money

"The intelligentsia of the nation, those not in poverty, those not suffering from want, haven't been for the plan," the doctor continued seriously. "They haven't needed it. It is safe to say that this plan never would have carried forward at all, in a prosperous America. And because there has been so much poverty, suffering, extreme losses of finances, for the average man, he is the one who has made up a large proportion of the Townsend ranks. Had more of those who had money joined us in the early days of our struggle, that struggle would not have been so severe.

Yes, the doctor believes great advances for the Townsend program will be made in the near future. The Democrats in power now, he said, must "come in" and help with the Townsend plan or suffer at the hands of the Republicans at the next presidential election campaign, when the Republicans would use a Democratic failure to support the movement as a political weapon to score a Republican victory. But he also felt that the Townsend movement has many fighters in the political ranks at Washington, D. C., already, now that the election is over. He named Senator William Borah of Idaho as one of the staunchest Townsend champions.

Poor Handler of Money

Dr. Townsend admitted himself "born and bred" a poor handler of money. "I can't even handle my own family budget, although Mrs. Townsend is always mentioning me as pinching the pennies," he said. "But I generally try to, and usually do, live up to my income, whether it's $100 a month or five times that. But if I had $10,000 a year, I'd probably spend it all. There is so much real suffering which could be relieved by that sum." The sincerity with which he said that, left little doubt but that much of his income goes to help others.

"Oh yes, and you wanted to know about my arrest and plans regarding my facing the federal court," the doctor said as the question of his paying a $1000 bail bond in Los Angeles to guarantee his appearance, later, in a federal court at Washington, was broached. Then, some of the determination which has been revealed in the past two years appeared upon Dr. Townsend's face as he spoke vigorously.

Needs Time for Book

"I'll never pay a fine! I'll stay in jail as long as they tell me to—it's a rather restful place, at that—even if it's six months! I'd like to see what the inside of a jail looks like, anyhow, and after all, there's no stigma attached to such an incarceration. I have a book I want to finish, anyhow. It would take just about that long to finish it. Besides, such an incarceration would gain us many new sympathizers and followers!"

Declaring the Townsend organization has a young lawyer of ability in Chicago, "but whether he is capable of standing up before the federal judge and pleading my case successfully, I don't know," Dr. Townsend said he would personally plead his case. Then he referred somewhat bitterly to the Congressional investigating committee, which he "walked out" on, with result he was indicted by a federal grand jury on contempt charges.

Not Enough Contempt

"If I have shown contempt of this committee, I haven't shown half enough contempt for it!" he exclaimed. "It went far beyond its prerogative in this matter." Dr. Townsend said he would leave Thursday for Chicago and would be en route on Christmas day. Mrs. Townsend leaves Wednesday to allow her time to stop one day at the old "country doctor" neighborhood, Bellefourche.

TOWNS RAZED BY EARTHQUAKE

which added to the panic and made rescue more difficult. Freakish weather accompanied the temblors. The temperature dropped rapidly and a high wind of gale-like proportions sent debris flying, injuring many more.

Volcano Erupts

Greatest quake intensity was felt in the region of the "extinct" San Vicente volcano which some survivors say seemed to erupt during the earth shocks. Cities most affected, in addition to San Vicente were Tepetitan, Apastepec, Veracruz, San Esteban, San Cayetano, San Sebastian and Tecolucan.

While reports from these towns have been vague and conflicting—all wires are down—it was not believed their damages or loss of life would approach that of the more populous San Vicente.

Two trainloads of injured refugees, numbering 500, have arrived here for medical attention.

Trains Off To Area

Several trains left here carrying enough medical supplies, clothing and food to care for the homeless thousands for a few days.

President Martinez and his cabinet, worked day and night at the scene of the disaster to restore order.

Under his guidance, the Red Cross issued a nationwide appeal for food, clothing and money. The Society for Social Assistance appropriated $500,000 to be used for the reconstruction of the destroyed city.

PRICES BOOSTED FOR INAUGURATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Best grandstand seats for the inauguration of President Roosevelt on January 20 will cost $10, an increase of $2 over the top price of four years ago, the inaugural committee announced today. Prices of the cheaper seats will be increased in proportion, with a $2.50 minimum compared with $2 in 1932.

Chief reason for the increase, it was said, was the decision not to hold the usual inaugural ball, a revenue producer in former years. In addition, the committee is spending almost 50 per cent more on grandstands than four years ago.

Christmas Will Be Birthday, Too, for Canada's Quads

Although their fame went into eclipse when the Dionne quintuplets were born, the Mahaney quadruplets of St. John, New Brunswick, have more than the usual reason for practicing their songs for Christmas Day. For they were born on Christmas and will celebrate their thirteenth birthday this yuletide. Joining voices with their mother, who hopes to make them a singing attraction, are, left to right, Edna Louise, John Douglas, Edith May, and Lyda Christine. Jobs have been scarce for the quads' father, William Mahaney, a carpenter, so St. John organizations are planning Christmas gifts for the family.

the purpose of collective bargaining," they agree to give preference in employment for unlicensed deck personnel, the union agreeing to furnish competent and satisfactory employees.

The problem of the hiring halls, discrimination and establishment of a port committee for adjudication of grievances are among the 18 points covered in the agreement.

J. E. Ferguson, secretary of the Pacific Coast Marine Firemen, Oilers, Waterenders and Wipers' association, reached an agreement which likewise includes settlement measures of the various factors in dispute.

Wage Scales Set

Wage scales for the sailors union were set at from $50 to $85 per month. The Marine Firemen's union scale ranged from $60 to $82.50. Overtime for both unions is set at 70 cents an hour.

"Is it apparent," Plant said, "that the agreements are underwritten with satisfactory wages, hours and working conditions, a vital necessity for the shipping industry as well as to the men. Without these vital factors, no constructive operation is possible."

"In our continuing negotiations with the other unions, I hope the same common sense attitude which obtained in our negotiations with the Sailors' union and the Marine Firemen, Oilers, Waterenders and Wipers' association will prevail, so that we may bring about a speedy resumption of service."

FIGHT ON ORANGE ADVERTISING LOOMS

the capital that it intends to do so.

Oranges Compared

The Florida people are particularly incensed over the advertising of the "Sunkist" variety, though other varieties are included. According to officials of AAA's fruit section, the department of agriculture will become involved because of a publication issued by its bureau of home economics, which stated that California oranges have more of vitamin C, the most important vitamin, than Florida oranges.

Richer Juices

California oranges, the agricultural experts said, have darker and richer juices, but on the whole the juice content of their product is considerably less than that of Florida oranges.

During the years 1932, 1933 and 1934, Orange and Los Angeles counties shipped an average of about 15,000 carloads of oranges a year. California shipments totaled 70,710 carloads in 1935, and 2136 truckloads. Florida shipped 22,661 carloads in 1935 and 5908 truckloads. Texas, Arizona and Louisiana produce smaller amounts of oranges.

With a heavy crop expected this season, it is estimated that the orange farm value in California and Arizona, under the same marketing agreement, will total almost $60,000,000. The 1924-1928 value was $80,000,000.

ELEPHANT IN ENGLAND ONCE

LONDON (UP)—Excavations in a gravel pit near York have revealed that giant elephants and other ancient animals once roamed the forests of Yorkshire. T. Sheppard, director of the museum at Hull, said that tusks, teeth, horns and bones of extinct animals discovered in the pit have been identified as those of elephant, rhinoceros, wild horse and buffalo.

Weighty Evidence Flies High

Miss Viola Hartman, airline stewardess, weighs in more than 100 pounds of evidence which Attorney George Davis carried East for a new fight to gain freedom for Tom Mooney, famous prisoner in the San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing. The transcript, contained in 20 volumes, is valued at $15,000.

KEN Murray SAYS:

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—In spite of all the rumpus on the other side of the Atlantic, lately, it still wasn't so noisy that Uncle Sam couldn't hear the passing of that French war-debt payment, which was due December 15th. . . . It's true, France used to be considered a good friend of ours, but we didn't realize she was so close.

Of course, it all sounds very nice that they hope to be able to pay something soon, but why don't they follow Maurice Chevalier's old plan, and do it "Right now!"

From the long time it has taken France to make any progress with the debt, she either don't want to dig up the dough, or else is trying to do it with WPA workers.

What I can't understand is how they can sing the Marseillaise so snappy, when they hold their nose so long.

You know, it's little Finland that never misses the payment. . . . Somehow, I always did suspect that Santa Claus came from somewhere up that way.

DOCTOR EXONERATED IN PETTY DEATH

An inquest jury at Winbigler's funeral chapel this morning exonerated Dr. Llewellyn E. Wilson, of Orange county hospital, from blame in connection with the sudden death of Mrs. Lillie Petty, 45, of 1805 West Second, Santa Ana, Friday while she was undergoing a major operation at the hospital.

Mrs. Petty, ill for several years, according to reports, died of heart trouble during the operation, it was found upon investigation.

ARMS EMBARGO ACT IS UPHELD

uel J. Abelow and Robert R. Barr.

Indictment Last January

The embargo proclamation was issued May 28, 1934. It was revoked November 14, 1935, after Chaco hostilities were ended. The indictment was returned January 27, 1936.

The supreme court announced today that it will hear argument on the constitutionality of the amended Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium act in an appeal from the fourth circuit court of appeals, which had condemned the law.

The act involved in the present case was passed by congress after the supreme court unanimously condemned a similar law in the spring of 1934. The new act was designed to meet the specific objections set out by the tribunal in its earlier opinion.

Appealed By Lemke

The present case was appealed by Rep. William Lemke, R., N. D., joint author of the law and Union party presidential candidate. The case was brought by Robert Page Wright, a Virginia farmer whose 59 acre farm near Old Stewartsville, Va., was threatened with foreclosure as Wright found himself insolvent.

11 ESCAPE DEATH IN FORCED LANDING

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Dec. 21.—

(UP)—Plucky Dick Merrill, transatlantic flier, nursed minor but painful injuries in St. Francis hospital today while passengers on his Miami-New York Eastern Air lines transport praised his forced landing of the big ship on a heavily wooded hilltop during a blinding rain and snow storms.

Merrill pancaked the plane down without serious injury to the eight passengers, co-pilot and steward. He suffered a fractured jaw and broken ankle and had five teeth knocked out. Only other injuries were to John Battle, co-pilot, and Samuel Saggio, of Milburn, N. J., a passenger. The steward and seven other passengers returned to New York.

G. O. P. Meeting Set for Jan. 3

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 21.—(UP)—Republican members of the 1937 California legislature were summoned today to meet in Sacramento January 3 for a pre-session caucus to consider organization of the assembly and development of a party program. Letters signed by Justus F. Craemer, chairman, and Lawrence

Cobb, secretary of the Republican state central committee, were sent all Republican senators and assemblymen notifying them of the caucus.

For the first time in many years, Republicans will be in the minority in the lower house, but they planned an intensive effort to land the speakership, with Assemblyman Charles Lyon, administration floor leader two years ago, their foremost candidate.

Stoves Become Letter Files For Educators

BOSTON (UP)—Boston's 3-year-old Adult Education Center, while preparing to move into its recently purchased new home, has exemplified the maxim "necessity is the mother of invention."

The kitchen in the Center's present temporary home is the headquarters for all official correspondence. Stoves have been converted into files, while the sink is a repository for stationery and envelopes. A cookie board serves as desk and typewriter table.

The Center is enjoying its most popular season. Three hundred more persons are enrolled, and there are 15 more groups housed at the Center.

Director Dorothy Hewitt says that interest has grown so in Center services that extra sections have been arranged for groups studying German, French, vocabulary building, speech training, current affairs, amateur photography, international affairs and parliamentary law.

DEATH NOTICES

A WORD OF COMFORT

Going to church is hard when your heart is bursting with grief but you need what you can find there in company with other.

The fact is difficult to explain, but it is evident that when people gather together for worship and praise and seek strength to live, each one receives more than is within one's grasp alone.

Do not try to bear your sorrow in isolation. Reach out for God in company with your fellows, and strength, courage and peace will be yours.

WILL IT BE JUST ANOTHER DAY

It can be another dismal day, or it can be a joyous Christmas for this little group. Thousands, more fortunate, will sit down to their dinners, thankful that they have been so well remembered. But these children and their mother will have only a prospect of loneliness, without even the bare comforts of life, unless you share with them by contributing to the Santa Ana Salvation Army-Register Christmas fund NOW.

SALVATION ARMY—REGISTER FUND NEARS HALF WAY MARK

With the rapid approach of Christmas, the campaign for a $500 fund with which to buy baskets of food for needy children and their families for a big Christmas dinner, today totaled $230.25.

The drive, under auspices of the Santa Ana Salvation Army and The Register, is in its last stages and while a long way from the $500 objective, is sure to go "over the top" in the opinion of Capt. Lewis McAllan.

"There were many contributions received by us and The Register over the week end," Captain McAllan said this morning, "and we are certain that by the time all of today's mail is received, the $350 mark will have been reached."

"However, the time is so short that I am making a last-minute plea to all who are concerned over the happiness of destitute families in our community. If we can get in $150 during Tuesday and Wednesday, we will be able to make the usual distribution of food baskets during Thursday."

The fate of the drive also will decide the proportions of the Christmas tree party for the children at Salvation Army headquarters early next week, and the dinner for homeless and lonely men Christmas day.

Workers, who expect to complete a canvass of homes in the city by Wednesday evening, predicted that at least 400 baskets would be needed if the city is to keep faith with hundreds of eager children.

Quick action is urged for all prospective donors. Contributions may be sent either to Salvation Army Santa Ana headquarters, or to the business offices of The Register.

Names of today's contributors were listed as follows:
Mrs. I. M. Weber, Wright Bowen, William Wagner, Mrs. A. Garrett, the Superior School of Beauty, Mrs. W. Lanning, H. Deering, J. H. Rankin, C. M. Holdeman, H. E. Head, G. W. Bond & Son, A. R. Seudder, Elmer Thompson, S. P. Kane and J. K. Evans.

END TO TENANCY IN WEST URGED

STILLWATER, Okla. (UP)—Reclamation of that Great Plains area which has won the popular appellation "the dust bowl" must be founded on the cornerstone of a stable family unit, in the opinion of Dr. Charles P. Loomis, agricultural economist of the U. S. department of agriculture.

Dr. Loomis, who specializes in rural population problems, cited the elimination of land speculation, foreclosures and tenancy as necessary factors in the conservation program. In the drought area, he said, the farm population increased rapidly in the decades preceding 1910, with settlers coming from less arid climates of the Mississippi valley.

Forced to farm on 160-acre tracts by homestead laws, the settlers used the farming methods of their native localities to cultivate the freshly-broken sod.

Pasture Land Broken
"The result," Dr. Loomis said, "was that much land that should have been left to pasture was broken and the winds began the erosion that has damaged as much as 65 per cent of the soil in some of the plains areas."

Adjustment of the size of farm units to the climate is needed, he said. Lands not suitable for cultivation might be turned back to public domain and scientific soil conservation farming methods employed on the family-owned holdings.

"The limitation of all farmers to the 160-acre homestead did not take into consideration the arid nature of the region," Dr. Loomis declared.

Larger Tracts Favored
He suggested that family ownership of large tracts of land be encouraged as an important step in developing a "conservation minded" population. He urged removal of opportunity for land speculation as a factor in stabilizing the population of the plains states.

"Between the periodic droughts that have visited the west since 1863, new farmers coming to the region have been sold land at high prices and persuaded to go in debt beyond their ability to pay," he explained. "As a consequence of the expenditure of money made during periods of good prices and higher rainfall for additional land, many western farmers have become land poor."

PROGRAM IS HELD AT MUSEUM HERE

Some 125 persons were attracted to the program at the Charles W. Bowers Memorial museum yesterday afternoon as Harry Easton instructor in dress designing and fabrics at Scripps college, Claremont, outlined the history of weaving and placed numerous fine examples of historic weaving, on display.

One of the finest displays of coverlets ever seen here was revealed and included two coverlets, one belonging to Miss Minnie Cowan, Santa Ana, and another to Mrs. W. J. Moore, Santa Ana. Miss Easton said the Cowan and Moore coverlets are "priceless."

She traced the history of weaving from its earliest beginning, and produced examples from Egypt, Greece and Asia Minor. Numerous Colonial coverlets were shown.

Wool weaving of 1838; linen of the 1816 period, and muslin of 30 years ago, were revealed in the interesting display.

VIOLATION OF PROBATION IS CHARGED TO 3

Three men charged with violating terms of probation in connection with criminal offenses appeared before Superior Judge James L. Allen, two of them pleading guilty to the alleged violations, and hearing being set in the third case, that of R. A. Scriven.

The court set December 24 at 10 a. m. as the time for hearing the charge that Scriven, who was granted probation for five years on May 5, 1932, in connection with a charge of issuing a fraudulent check, had violated terms of probation by failing to make the required monthly reports to the probation department.

Lee Morgan, who was placed on probation for three years February 15, 1935, in connection with a charge of drunk driving, pleaded guilty today to violating terms of probation by theft of clothing, worth $5, at Pasadena last October 30. Judge Allen allowed him to remain on probation.

Ray Reyes also pleaded guilty to violating terms of probation granted him for five years August 19, 1932, in connection with a burglary charge. Last November 11 he got drunk at Pico and was fined $10. The court today allowed him to remain on probation, on condition that he serve 30 days in the county jail.

STRANGE FUNERAL TO BE WEDNESDAY

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m. for William C. Strange, 80, father of William C. Strange Jr., well-known Santa Ana resident, who died Saturday at a local hospital. Services will be held at the Smith and Tutill chapel with the Rev. George A. Varner, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating. Interment will follow in Fairhaven cemetery.

Mr. Strange, a resident of Santa Ana for the past year, died after a brief illness. In addition to his son who lives in Santa Ana he is survived by another son, Robert Strange, of Hollywood.

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

REVISION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The high command here seems to have dropped the soft-pedaled criticism against the supreme court. Interior Secretary Ickes for example, gave out a peculiarly worded statement after the court sent the Duke power case back to the lower courts without a decision. He denounced the power companies for thus delaying the decision, but said that a word about the court. He asserted the powerites were holding up $50,000,000 of PWA employment projects by their technical legal delay. It sounded significant. What happened on the inside was even more significant.

It seems that Mr. Ickes' young liberal lawyers in PWA were not against the court action. They wrote a confidential memo to Mr. Ickes outlining an attack upon the court and pointing out the harm wrought by the delay. They suggested Mr. Ickes issue it in his own name. He revised it to apply to the power companies instead of the court and then gave it out.

COURSES

The incident illustrates a growing unannounced sentiment among new deal authorities. Most of the top liberals have come to the conclusion they are not going to accomplish their purposes by court attacks, or, in fact, by constitutional amendments. They are looking for other, more practical, methods, such as the step now in progress in the national labor board case against the steel companies. The idea behind that case, of course, is to help John Lewis organize the steel industry and thus to effect maximum hours and minimum wages without legislation, court reorganization or constitutional amendment.

Inasmuch as returning southern Democrats in congress also are going on record privately against a constitutional amendment, there seems to be little prospect that the question will be considered seriously, unless a new situation arises.

An exception to the current trend of the well-informed was the action taken by the national consumers league. It went on record for a constitutional amendment to permit, without question, effective federal and state labor and social legislation. Two officers of that league are Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt and Prof. Felix Frankfurter.

FEAR

Excellent lawyers around the court are perturbed, nevertheless. They are convinced the court will have to hold unconstitutional the state of Washington minimum wage law for women. Such action, they fear, will lead to a new liberal uproar.

Their perturbation seems to be justified. The lawyer for the state of Washington admitted in the arguments that some aspects of the law were invalid under the Adkins case decision. His contention that the case applied only to hotel chambermaids seemed to be somewhat weak-headed.

The issue involves a suit brought by a chambermaid to recover the difference between the state minimum wage and what was actually paid her. The lawyer argued the hotel business is public and subject to state regulation.

STUCK

No less an authority than the No. 2 man of the new deal inspired those recently published predictions that there would be no resignations from the cabinet. However, he was speaking only about the other nine members, and not about himself. He would not comment about his own plans, which still call for his resignation January 1.

The reason there will be few resignations is that "it would take a team of horses" to get any cabinet member out. They like it here.

SUPPRESSION

Chemists in the agriculture department conducted an investigation of what wines may be drunk with certain foods, and prepared a pamphlet. It will never be of assistance to dining outsiders. Every one okayed it until it reached Agriculture Secretary Wallace. He pocketed it.

EASING

More than one congressman is taking inside steps to have Attorney General Cummings tone down his belligerent crime-catcher, J. Edgar Hoover. It seems that Mr. Hoover, by working hard at it, has made nearly every Washington authority a potential enemy.

UNDERSTANDING

The supreme court may be a frequent target for criticism from outside, but never from attorneys appearing before it. That is, almost never. Assistant Attorney General Toner of Washington state told the court the other day.

"I must confess that sometimes I read what your honors say without being able to understand the meaning."

He was not fined for contempt, the justice presumably taking the view that the fault lay with Mr. Toner.

BERKELEY, Dec. 21. — There will be no "breather" for the Bears when "Nibe" Price's varsity basketball team meets the University of Oregon here Tuesday night.

To date Oregon has won three pre-season games, all by large margins, and last weekend defeated U. C. L. A. by a score of 56-30. The Oregon team uses a fast break with man-to-man defense and in opening games it has looked unusually fast. Their probable starting lineup will be Laddie Gale and Dave Silver, forwards; "Slim" Wintermute, center; and Bob Anet and Wally Johanson, guards.

Gale is a 6:4 sophomore, was the scoring sensation of the 1935 frosh team, averaging 12 points per game. Silver, another 6:4 giant and a southpaw, is the only returning regular from last year's varsity. He has scored 37 points in three pre-season games. Wintermute, who is also left-handed, is 6:8; a perpetual scoring threat, and is extremely fast for his size. He weighs 195 and is 19 years.

Anet, a sophomore, is the midjet of the team, standing at 6:8, while Johanson, another sophomore, is 6:11.

In the starting lineup for the Bears will probably be Bob Duffy, 6:2, and Ray Balsley, 6:1, forwards; Chet Carlisle, 6:8½, center; and Don Jensen, 6:2, and Doug Knight, 6:2, guards.

In addition to her husband Peter T. Isherwood, she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. S. F. Bernier, Garden Grove and three grandchildren, Ruth, Charles and Thomas Bernier, all of Garden Grove.

She was a charter member of Ada Chapter No. 5, O. E. S. of Albuququerque, N. M., and the Pythian Sisters of Tustin.

Other special parts were acted out by Paul Fisher, Elmer Clark, Jeanette Kessel, Luther Abrams, Hugh Bement and Glen Thompson. The Rev. W. L. Lowe gave both the invocation and the benediction.

In charge of stage settings were Ed Ham, Glenn Moore, Robert Erbe and D. J. Dodge. Costuming was in charge of the Mesdames Noel Owen, Elmer Clark, Harvey Crane, Harry Iverson, Wilfrid Rowntree, Raymond Eastman and Donald Dodge.

Lights were manipulated by Hugh Davis, Kenneth Kessel and Leroy Shilling. Mrs. Roy Davis was in charge of advertising, Mrs. Maud Kennedy directed the ushers and the Misses Hester Tallman and Hazel Spencer made the programs. Sponsors of the entertainment were Henry Abrams and Mrs. Clara McNally, of the elementary schools; Mrs. Sidney Davidson, president of the local P. T. A.; A. L. Pinkley, president of the Lions club; Harold Grauel, president of the chamber of commerce; Mrs. J. O. Tallman, president of the Friday Afternoon club; R. C. FORUM TO DEBATE MARRIED WOMEN HOLDING JOBS WHEN HUSBANDS ALSO EMPLOYED

Should married women whose husbands work be permitted to hold jobs in the business or professional world? That is a question which has been argued pro and con for years. Now it is to be debated—tomorrow night at the Forum for Political and Economic Education in the junior college building, 917 North Main street.

According to Arrangements Committee Chairman W. H. (Ted) Blanding, the debate subject, "Resolved, that Married Women Holding Jobs When Their Husbands Work is Detrimental to Society," will be handled affirmatively by F. C. McCandless, past president of the Toastmasters club and now deputy governor of Toastmasters Internationale, and negatively by Ernest Wooster, deputy county auditor.

"This question is vital because of the difference in economic beliefs of the people," Blanding said today. "Some believe there is a scarcity of work and for that reason, the women who hold jobs, take the jobs away from men who need them. Others contend there is no scarcity of work and therefore, women who work are helping to raise the standard of living."

"These two differences in economic belief are the crux of the whole debate," he continued. "It is most necessary to have the voters understand the truth regarding the 'work' phase of economics if we are to raise our standard of living, as desired. For that reason, a good crowd should be out at the forum."

The public is invited to attend.

TWO ARRESTED FOR ATTACKING ANAHEIM MAN

The two alleged assailants of Mr. and Mrs. Emil C. Witt, liquor dealers of North Los Angeles street, Anaheim, gave themselves up to police Saturday afternoon when they walked into the Anaheim police station to find warrants awaiting them.

C. R. Witt, Rte. 2, Box 357A, Orange, was the first to come to police, appearing at 4:30 p. m. to have the warrant served charging him with simple assault. He gave his age as 32. At 7:20 p. m. Willis Livingston, 26, of 6125 S. Figueroa, Los Angeles, appeared to be held on a similar charge.

At 8 p. m. each man posted $100 bail to appear December 28. Fifteen minutes later police received a call from the Witts that the men had walked by the liquor store, located on the edge of town, and they were afraid of being annoyed further. The men had left when police reached the place, however.

The quarrel occurred Thursday night when the two men in the company of a third stopped to buy liquor at Witts. They attempted to walk off with a large advertising sign which was refused them and a quarrel resulted in which Mr. and Mrs. Witt each reported being struck.

REPORTER THRILLED BY FLIGHT

BY NEIL SHAW

Nobody may care what a reporter's impressions are at any time or any place, and probably don't.

But when you have just come from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean, and then see the Pacific and white graceful stretches of Southern California beaches for the first time in your life through sparkling cabin windows of a bright red Stinson monoplane—

When you nose into the setting of a Western sun of burnished gold while 1500 feet in the air and approach glistening and silent waters that mark the far-west boundary of a new continent at 100 miles an hour—

When you thrill for the first time at the same sight that held the fearless Balboa spellbound centuries before, and the mental kaleidoscope shows you in a quick vision the changes wrought since that tired explorer visited these shores and this blends so perfectly and without effort with the realistic sight of a variety of symmetrical and beautiful patterns that are flourishing orange groves, productive garden tracts, and the delightful little cluster that is Costa Mesa—all flowing this time smoothly beneath you—

Then He Writes
Well, pards, when all this and more, too, happens to you, and then the city editor thinks, "you've got something there fellow, so shut up and get busy on that mill over in your corner!" Well, then, folks, you've got something, especially since you're the mere reporter and the city editor is doing the palaver. It's funny, but you just naturally listen when the city editor palavers.

So here we are, writing. It all happened late Sunday afternoon.

An introduction to Dale Deckert, Santa Ana business man and expert aviation enthusiast, resulted in an invitation to take a flight from the Eddie Martin airport. And up to that time, believe it or not, the Santa Ana municipal airport constituted absolutely the point farthest west that we had ever been in these United States. And here we were, being invited to take the rest of the brief journey to the Pacific in the air! The take-off was fast and smooth. A roar of a powerful motor, solid comfort in the cabin of the plane, profound mental restfulness that you have when you know a competent flier when you see one, a little turn, and you're off in a smooth upward glide.

Immediately, you sight to the left and ahead the crooked-finger that is back-bay from Newport channel and harbor. You learn then that there is a channel is what you call an inlet in Florida, and a back-bay is what you know there as a lagoon or lake—a matter of personal choice.

You speed on through the soothing drone of the engine, picking up your initial vista of lovely Balboa Island in a peaceful nautical setting, then the harbor itself with prim masted schooners, cruisers and pleasure boats.

Over Coastline

Before you realize, and before the imprint of the whole situation fully dawns on disseminating consciousness, you're beyond and over the slanting coastline, gazing into sunlit and water-bounded space. There's another turn, without a ripple.

Back again you zoom, east and over what formerly was known (we were told by Deckert) in the good old days of Spanish lore and colorful romance as "Bolsa de Quisara"—meaning, so it seems, a bay with high banks. Then we know for the first time that Florida and California do have something in common. They both were first lands of Spain when Spain was avidly seeking new worlds to conquer.

You can only dream of the day before the ranchos of Santiago de Santa Ana and San Joaquin were developed by settlers from Eastern states, and when there was little human activity of any kind in the vicinity of Newport Bay.

After an easily-executed side-slip and dip, Deckert points out the elegant figure of the yacht "Stranger," patiently awaiting another journey to enchanted isles.

Another slip and dip and you see what appears to be a miniature gridiron, the center of a cluster of buildings on the beach.

Again, before you realize, the ship is headed east again, only to swoop down and spiral over the Santa Ana river channel on a circuitous route back to the airport.

A three-point, joltless landing, and the plane is home again.

Then you meet Floyd Martin and Joe Hagar, courteous operators of the flying service under their names, and managers of the airport.

The ride is ended, but the melody of vistas from the skies, lingers on.

HELLO, CHIEF?—THERE'S NO CLUES HERE!

The inspector stepped into the room where the murder had taken place and carefully looked things over before moving further. After satisfying himself as to the general inspection he walked to the desk where the body was slumped down in the desk chair, one hand covering the bottom of a piece of stationery upon which an unfinished note was penned. It read, "Oiga susp—"

Closer inspection revealed the desk drawer partially opened, an opened ink bottle, a pen tray holding the recent used pen, and several pencils and the gun from which the shot had been fired was on the rug beside the chair. The bullet was found imbedded in the wall just below a window.

"Well," said the inspector, "I think the note is a forgery and I know this man was not killed while he was writing it."

How did the inspector know this?

NEW YORK CITY—This column some weeks ago said that the railroad system does not show financial and administrative management comparable with that of other industries. That has provided a considerable correspondence of protest—the principal points of which were at least mentioned in the original article.

All were ably stated in a recent letter; (1) that both rates and labor wages are regulated for railroads by government and therefore that the management should not be criticized for results; (2) that taxes are 8% of costs; (3) that the criticism that the railroads are overcapitalized is answered by Commissioner Eastman himself, who once said, that they were not "in the sense that par value of outstanding securities exceeds the money invested," and also by that fact that all railroad building since the war has been approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission; (4) that great expense has been imposed by public demand for terminals, duplicated services and grade-crossing elimination; (5) that the government itself subsidizes railway competition by trucks and water and air. It is also said that the government should discard its policy of enforcing an outmoded and uneconomic competition because regulation alone is now sufficient to protect the public interest, and that it is not at all clear that it would have been wise for railroads to enter competitive fields of transportation.

That is an excellent brief of defense against the criticisms of this column—which were not made cavalierly. The writer had several months of study and heard a complete presentation of both sides in preparing the report of the Coolidge-Baruch National Transportation Committee.

I think the answer that railroad management can't be judged by business standards because of rate and wage regulation is answered by the offsetting circumstance that the government rule of rate making is a "fair return on the investment."

What business manager can rely on such a crutch as that? In business you earn at all if you can beat the other fellow to cheaper and better service, and if that doesn't happen to be a fair return on investment that's just too bad for the investment. In other business, bricks and mortar and machines have no value unless they earn profits—they are liabilities if they lose. Nobody has a right to earn a fair return on his investment errors.

This, I think is the heart of the whole railroad trouble. Its financial set-up is loaded with mortgages which are not true mortgages but only income bonds, and this vast debt in part—and sometimes in large part—does not represent earning assets. It represents dead horses, the bodies of old blunders, or obsolete or non-earning facilities. The rates demanded to earn a "fair return" on an investment that has ceased to be effective make the whole structure too high and prevent proper profits on more effective investment in the same companies. Mr. Eastman's remark that the par value of securities is not greater than the money spent has no bearing on this.

I have not checked this statement, but it is my impression that, at least all recent rate reductions, have been at the instance of the railroads and not the Government—and all have been reflected in greatly improved results.

If the part of taxes in railway operating costs is 8%, I am not sure that several private industries do not bear a heavier burden. I agree that the Government policy of subsidizing competition and not being willing to rely wholly on its sufficient powers of regulation to protect the public is atrocious, but all that leaves the main criticism here unanswered—that the rate structure ought to be gauged to the measure of the cheapest competitive, profitable and efficient operating costs and on no rule protecting investment, where it is or is not efficiently producing.

This would entail a tremendous financial reorganization, sealing down of book values, and loss to investors—but that was the whole point of the original piece—that this is exactly what the situation needs. These were the conclusions of the Coolidge Committee.

AUTO LICENSE PLATES TO BE ISSUED JAN. 2

After consulting with Ray Ingels, director of the department of motor vehicles, Capt. H. C. Meehan of the Orange county highway patrol office, and other county heads of the state highway patrol, announced today that all offices of the motor vehicle department will remain open Saturday afternoon during the license plate renewal period, January 2 to February 4.

"Regular office hours are from 9 to 5 for five weeks days, 9 to noon on Saturday, for the license plate renewing," Captain Meehan pointed out. "Our office will not only be open Saturday afternoon, but we will later try to plan for handling of license plates for motorists, from 8 a. m. until 5."

Plates may be obtained at any of the 14 branch offices maintained by the department in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Fresno, San Diego, Oakland, Palo Alto, Berkeley, Long Beach, San Bernardino, Pasadena, Hollywood, Stockton and San Jose, California highway patrol offices, or in temporary branch offices in Glendale, Redondo, Santa Monica, Pomona, Whittier, Huntington Park district, Van Nuys, San Pedro, Fullerton and Altadena.

Members of auto clubs may get their plates at the clubs' offices. Those desiring to do so, may mail their certificates of registration and postal cards, showing the total fees to be paid, with a money order to the department in Sacramento.

"To expedite the issuance of your plates," the director said, "have your certificate of registration and postal card showing the vehicle license and registration fees with you, and if possible, the correct amount of money. If you do not have the card the office will be able to determine the amount of your vehicle license fee, but only after a search, which will mean that you and those in line back of you, will be delayed."

PET TALKS

By MRS. T. J. NEAL

When May Lamberton Becker, former editor of St. Nicholas, was asked how one should select dog books for children, she replied, "The book should be chosen for the age of the child and the breed of dog the child loves best. If the child, unfortunately, has no dog almost any dog in a book will do, so long as the dog does not die. Writers who have a dog die in juvenile books, should be put in jail. It all but breaks the child's heart if it is a good animal."

A properly fed kitten should have a little scrap beef at the age of six weeks.

Christmas presents are many and varied this year for pets. Most all dogs in the homes of today will find a stocking for them hanging from the mantel or on the tree, if the spirit of gift-giving has full sway. There are tug-of-war toys, crackle bones, chocolate scented grip balls, warm sun-glyceners for nippy dogs or a bright new collar. If the dog is small, what would be nicer than a lovely sleeping basket all padded in gay colors? For kitty there are catnip balls or mice, leaping frogs, a kitty dinette or a soft, plaid fireside cushion. For Dickie, the canary or the parakeet, a cage with pretty cutie, a gay round swing or a cutie-bone. Even the goldfish will enjoy a fresh spray of anachris or a high-ball. Your pets really will sense the spirit of the day, so don't forget them this Christmas.

To keep parakeets in good health they must have the proper seed, gravel and water. The correct millet seed is very important. They love cutie-bone but this is not a necessity.

BOX OFFICE, THEY USUALLY spell it with letters a mile high in radio. But none seem to be able to write it with the flare of the Lux hour. (KHJ, 6)

The combination of Joan Harlow and Robert Taylor left some three hundred fans stranded in the rain last week when the doors were closed on a full house. But rain, tickets or no tickets, full house or no full house, those left outside were not to be denied.

The front doors were broken in. But for the quick work of a dozen policemen and ushers in the rear of the theater, a panic would have swept the show off the air.

Which perhaps marks the first time in theatrical history a would-be audience has broken down doors to see a show. Many have been banged up by out-going customers in an angry mood.

Tonight, another mob will swarm the CBS playhouse on Hollywood boulevard. The drawing power will be Joan Blondell and Dick Powell. They'll be there to play in "The Radio Version of Warner Brothers' 'Gold Diggers,' their first co-starring production since their marriage.

Plenty of laughs, music and drama have been promised by the pair.

goes national

IF YOU'RE SEARCHING THE air for Haven MacQuarry's show you might just as well forget about it until Thursday. For tonight Haven will be home resting from his hasty network debut Sunday evening.

In case you're not up on what happened during the week-end, here's a rehash:

Late Wednesday, the appellate division of the New York state supreme court came out with a ruling forbidding attorneys to give advice through "a publicity medium of any kind."

The American Bar Association journal also had this to say. We quote . . .

"The participation by a judge, or the use of his name in a commercially sponsored radio program purporting to be for the benefit of the public through the giving of legal advice to indigent persons is contrary to the standards of behavior prescribed by the canons of judicial ethics . . .

"It is improper for a former judge or any attorney to participate in, or permit the use of his name in, a commercially sponsored radio program purporting to be of benefit to the public through the giving of legal advice by a judge to indigent persons."

Which sounded the death knell for the Good Will Court.

The mad scramble for a worthy successor brought Haven MacQuarry's "Do You Want To Be An Actor?" into focus. Early Saturday morning—and I mean early—2:30—MacQuarry's signature was on the dotted line.

For the time being, at least, it was decided to continue the KFWB edition, moving it to Thursday nights, 8 o'clock.

I was in the studio Sunday night with MacQuarry when the red light flashed his network debut. I'll tell you all about it tomorrow—pictures and all.

CHURCH SENDS MANY PRIESTS INTO ETHIOPIA

VATICAN CITY (UP)—Mgr. Giovanni Emilio Castalani, Archbishop of Rhodes and papal inspector in Italian East Africa, has concluded his first visit to the Italian empire and plans are now underway to Catholicize Ethiopia. An extensive survey of the Catholic situation in Ethiopia has been presented to the Holy Congregation of Propaganda Fide and a large number of missionaries are ready to sail for Africa.

It is recalled that at the outbreak of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict the Vatican ordered missionaries to abandon their posts and leave Ethiopia. Now, their ranks considerably increased and under the protection of the Italian tricolor, they are returning to Ethiopia.

In August Pope Pius appointed Mgr. Gaudenzio Barlassina superior general of the "Consolata" missions in Addis Ababa. Mgr. Barlassina had been appointed apostolic prefect of the Kaffa region in 1913 and he faced tropical diseases and savage tribesmen, and continued to preach in Ethiopia.

The pontiff now has entrusted the apostolic vicariates of Eritrea and Galla to Capuchin monks. The vicariate of Eritrea soon will receive a large group of Piedmontese Capuchins headed by Mgr. Luigi Marinoni, former provincial of Milan and newly appointed vicar for that Italian African colony. The Eritrean vicariate already possesses nine missionary homes in Asmara, Massawa, Adloja, Adi Ygri, Sheren, Chinda, Meheba, Saccanetti and Barentu. These homes will be cared for by 35 Capuchin monks and 64 native priests.

Up to the outbreak of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict the vicariate of Galla was entrusted to Capuchin monks from Tolosa, Spain, and from the island of Malta.

Father Modesto de Valgrana has been appointed pro-vicar of Addis Ababa. The capital's vicariate comprises some of the most fertile and rich regions of the entire empire, namely the Jimma and the region of the Great Lakes as far east as Dolo, old Ethiopian frontier with Italian Somaliland. It continues south along the right bank of the Awash river down to the Blue Nile and has numerous missionary homes at Addis Ababa, Harar, Dire Dawa, Dagaima, Gambo, Dobia and many others.

Twenty-eight newly ordained Capuchins have been assigned to Ethiopia. They have been blessed by the pope.

Rangers to Fight Fires With Fire

DULUTH, Minn. (UP)—Minnesota's foresters probably will draw upon World War equipment for next year's battle against the recurrent menace of forest fires.

At a meeting of the board of fire review at the office of the supervisor of the superior national forest, a newly designed flame thrower was discussed.

The new implement, fashioned after the flame throwers used during the World War, would be used for backfiring.

The need for motorized equipment was emphasized in discussions for forest rangers and inspectors.

"Powerful tractors which operated large plow units were of the greatest value in tending last summer's disastrous fires," one report said. "Larger trailers for hauling tractors and plows to fire areas are needed."

It also was explained that new visibility maps are being prepared of the Superior national forest to assist in the location of new lookout towers.

Saturdays High in Count On Mishaps

ALBANY, N. Y. (UP)—The bureau of motor vehicles advises pedestrians and motorists that danger hours on New York state's highways and streets are between 5 p. m. and 7 p. m.

For the first nine months of 1936, in those two hours, statistics reveal that there were 7823 accidents—7823 non-fatalities and 200 fatalities.

Over the nine-month period there were 56,462 types of automobile mishaps, resulting in 1846 deaths.

Saturday led in number of accidents, 9664, with 816 fatalities. Sunday was the next highest day with 9007 accidents and 303 fatalities.

Cornell Gets Scholar Fund For Athletes

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UP)—Cornell University will receive approximately $100,000 to provide athletic scholarships because a 72-year-old woman liked sports. Half of the $200,000 residuary estate left by Mrs. Merry M. Dennis, widow of a candy manufacturer, was bequeathed to the Itha institution for that purpose.

CYCLIST CARRY ARMS
SYDNEY (UP)—Mr. and Mrs. C. J. McDonald have left on a nine months' bicycle tour of Australia. Two rifles and two hand bills slung across the handle bars of each bicycle are expected to facilitate the tour.

DENTIST'S NAME PAINLESS
LONDON (UP)—Painless Parker is the legal name of a Canadian dentist practicing in London. He was mentioned during an appeal before the privy council judicial committee. His counsel explained that the name "Painless" Parker was legally acquired by Parker in a state where the law forbade dentists to advertise.

THIEF PREFERENCES ROPE
TROY, N. Y. (UP)—A thief has entered the apartment of J. M. Coleman twice. The first time he cut away 175 feet of rope from the dumbwaiter. The second time

Coleman reported the clothes line missing.

BAN ANTI-GERMAN BLOTTERS
CAPE TOWN (UP)—The department of education has banned the use of "Anti-German" blotters in Cape Province schools. Blotters bearing the inscription

"Boycott Everything German" were said to have been used in some schools.

TELEPHONE ROMEO TRIPS
SANTA CRUZ, Cal. (UP)—A 23-year-old telephone Romeo, who specialized in "dating" girls over the telephone, made the mistake of getting a 64-year-old lady on the wire. The technical charge was disturbing the peace.

Most intense concentration of artillery fire in history occurred during the battle of St. Mihiel, in the World War, when a million artillery shells were fired in four hours.

SETTIN' 'EM UP, SMACKIN' 'EM DOWN WITH BOMBER

By HARRY GRAYSON

VICTIMS OF JOE LOUIS NEED PROTECTION NOW

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—There are quicker knockouts on record than Joe Louis' 26-second disposal of Eddie Simms in Cleveland the other night, but the Brown Bomber really is establishing new records in this respect.

Most of Louis' opponents are knocked out before they march front and center. They die in the dressing room, and are assisted to the platform with a lie in their hand. John L. Sullivan polished that kind off with a dirty look. Louis scares them even stiffer with a dead pan. King Levinsky sat in a corner, looking for the nearest exit, which didn't exist. Max Baer couldn't let a punch go to save his merry life. Simms didn't appear to know what he was about immediately before, during, or after his brief busting. Bumping into the executioner face to face isn't exactly pleasant.

Louis will flatten anybody who can't take a terrific belting and who doesn't hurt the Dark Angel fight under the gun. Max Schmeling struck early and stood up under withering fire as he cut the Alabama-born dandy down. Nature usually even things up by making the exceptional hitter vulnerable to his own medicine. When she richly endows a fighting man with both punch and durability, we have a Jeffries or a Dempsey. Schmeling clearly demonstrated that Louis' chin wasn't too well cemented and that his head wasn't stuffed with sawdust.

GOOD REFEREE ESSENTIAL

Louis intends to keep busy while waiting for a September shot at the "Baddeck-Schmeling" survivor of June 5. This means that he'll continue to mop up mediocre heavyweights like Jorge Brescia and Simms.

To protect these brave souls and insure against a fatality, it would be well for the Louis entourage to carry one of the better referees—Arthur Donovan of New York, George Blake of Los Angeles, or Slim McClelland of Detroit—along as a safety measure.

It was just as well that Donovan was in the Cleveland ring when Simms struggled to his feet with the eyes of a deceased tuna. A more intelligent chap than Louis would have appealed to the referee as the Slovenian stood there, out on his pins, his hands half way up, and in position to be tagged.

But Louis is no mental giant, and moves only one way when he lashes himself into battle. Smoky Joe is a cruel young man when the order is to commence firing. He stepped in to blot out what little life remained in Simms. It easily might have been a case for the coroner instead of the referee had not the experienced and level-headed Donovan intervened.

The short left hook deposited on Simms' cheekbone by Louis was the most profitable single punch in ring history. The Detroit lad was guaranteed $20,000 for it.

ROSENBLUM IN L. A.?

The Cleveland crowd of more than 10,000 and gate of close to $50,000 was a remarkable tribute to Louis. A telephone booth would have accommodated those who would have turned out for the remainder of the card, and the DeWanna-born dandy down. Nature usually even things up by making the exceptional hitter vulnerable to his own medicine. When she richly endows a fighting man with both punch and durability, we have a Jeffries or a Dempsey. Schmeling clearly demonstrated that Louis' chin wasn't too well cemented and that his head wasn't stuffed with sawdust.

Louis is to run over from Detroit to Buffalo to watch Jim Braddock in a four-rounder with his sparring partner, Jack McCarthy, Dec. 28. Detroit and Chicago engagements are being arranged for the colored clouter in January, and he is tentatively matched with Smokie Maxie Rosenbloom, formerly the light-heavyweight leader, in Los Angeles the week of Washington's birthday and just prior to the running of the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap on Feb. 27.

Smokie Maxie once was an exceptionally elusive target, but the Louis handlers suspect that there is more of him to hit now that he has blown up to 190 pounds.

Man or Beast? Ask McLeMore!

Owens' Match Race With Horse Stirs Bookies

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—The match between Jesse Owens and a horse, scheduled for a Havana track Saturday, has created a panic among the country's bookmakers and several of them, in desperation I suppose, have turned to this slender reed for advice.

With clients wanting to bet on the race the bookies, faced for the first time with the problem of making odds on man versus beast, are frantic for information and their letters, from "Dear Sir" to "Thanking you in advance," are packed with queries. z z z z z z z

Some of the questions, which I will endeavor to answer to the best of my knowledge, follows:

Q. Will the horse use a crouching start?

A. As I understand the conditions of the race, the horse will be allowed to use any start he chooses. I don't think he will use the crouch, however, as Brevity tried starting on his knees last season and found it highly unsatisfactory.

Q. What are the regulations as to shoes? Will Owens wear regular spiked shoes and the horse regular horse shoes?

A. I imagine so, although there is some talk of Jesse and his rival flipping a coin for the right to name the type of shoes to be worn. This would narrow down the field from which Owens' opponent will be chosen, for according to Ripley there are only two horses in Cuba capable of flipping a coin, and only one who can distinguish between heads and tails.

Q. What is a claiming race, and if so what is the claiming price on Owens?

A. No.

Q. What are Owens' colors?

A. Black, with biotted swastikas.

Q. Will the customary track regulations govern the race?

A. Yes. If Owens bumps the horse, cuts in front of him, or pushes him into the rail, he will be disqualified and made to pay his own hospital bills.

Q. What is the difference in wind resistance offered by a man and a horse?

A. Engineers generally agree that a horse offers more wind resistance.

Q. Is Owens a good post performer, or does he act up?

A. In his last start at Berlin, his post manners were perfect, but this is no guarantee they will be when he finds himself in a stall gate and with a ton or two of bay colt giving him the eye.

Q. Will the start be signalled by pistol shot or bell buzzer?

A. Owens has generously agreed to let his opponent choose the method of start.

Q. Is it true that "Sonny" Workman will have a leg up on Owens?

A. I doubt it. Workman is under

HUSKIES REACH SANTA BARBARA

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 21.—(UP)—University of Washington's football players arrived here today for a six-day practice session prior to invading Pasadena Sunday to represent the West against Pittsburgh in the Rose Bowl Jan. 1.

The Huskies will be quartered at the El Canto hotel, although Coach Jimmy Phelan has not decided which of the three practice fields offered will be used by his charges. Poor weather conditions forced Phelan to move from Seattle.

LOCK PITTS' PRACTICE GATES TO ALL

ARROWHEAD SPRINGS, Dec. 21.—(UP)—The crusading Pittsburgh Panthers settled down to their first serious workout in this foothill resort today, intent on avenging past football defeats in the Rose Bowl by besting the Washington Huskies.

Coach Jock Sutherland said gates to Parris field will be locked against possible scouts and inquisitive newspapermen while the Panthers are worked through two drills daily. A light session is scheduled for the mornings, while an extended practice will be held in the afternoons.

EASTERN ALL-STAR ARRIVE IN S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Members of the Eastern all-star football teams who will compete in the annual Shrine charity game New Year's Day arrived here today and began preliminary training.

The eastern team, comprising many players who have been rated all-American status, stopped in Sacramento for a public reception.

The west team, headed by Ed Goddard, Washington State quarterback, worked out briefly yesterday and opened regular training at Palo Alto today.

SAINTS FINISH FAST TO NIP OILER 'BEES'

In a basketball exhibition at Huntington Beach Saturday night, Coach Joe Kogler's Santa Ana "Bees" turned back the Oilers, 26 to 15, through a furious last-half scoring attack.

The score was knotted in the third period after the Little Saints came from behind with a characteristic rush. Huntington Beach held an 8-7 lead at the intermission.

Maurice Young, Santa Ana guard, led his team to victory with 8 points, while O'Neill and Duffel each scored six points for runners-up honors.

The score:

Q. Do you think Johnny Gilbert would be a good jockey for Owens?

A. No. Gilbert is a master with 8 points, while O'Neill and Duffel each scored six points for runners-up honors.

Q. Did you ever see a man versus horse race?

A. No. Nor did I ever see a three-legged calf, an egg with Lincoln's profile on it, nor a shaving brush that had been in use for fifty years.

Q. Who do you think will win?

A. The horse. After all, Paul Reverie rode one when he was in a hurry and the fate of this nation depended on his speed.

Blower Named U. C. Alumni Representative

Floyd Blower, now enroute to Atlanta with the University of California football squad, has been appointed as an alumni "field representative."

The former Santa Ana high school captain will endeavor to establish closer relations between alumni and the university.

Blower's duties, beginning with his graduation at Berkeley this semester, will be confined to Southern California. Mrs. Blower, the former Margaret Finley, will remain in college until June.

Blower plays his final game in a Golden Bear uniform against Georgia Tech Saturday.

SAINT STATUS UP TO LEAGUE

Officials from scattered sections of the Citrus Belt league, apparently in sympathy with a plan to invite Santa Ana high school, in-to the circuit, have started an unofficial move to accomplish that end.

Heading the movement is E. W. Fisher of Chaffey high school, president of the league, who is reported to have expressed favor for the plan.

Fisher also has sent a letter to other officials of the league, asking their opinions on the plan to admit Santa Ana high school as a sixth member of the loop.

From Santa Ana comes word that the Orange county high school is awaiting only a formal invitation from the Citrus Belt league before it opens its campaign for entrance.

Santa Ana is dissatisfied with its setup in the Coast Prep league, feeling that competition among the schools of larger enrollment is too strenuous.

The Citrus Belt league, long in need of a sixth team, appears to be the logical spot for the Saints. It will be necessary, even if the Citrus Belt league extends an invitation, to get the sanction of the C.I.F.

L. A. BULLDOGS TIE BROOKLYN DODGERS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Surprised at the unexpected strength of the Los Angeles professional football team, the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Pro league felt fortunate today to have held the Bulldogs to a 13 to 13 tie here yesterday.

The passing arm of Phil Sarboe, former Washington State star, really saved the day for the Dodgers. With the seconds ticking away in the last period, he fired a 23-yard touchdown pass to Jeff Barrett and later passed to Joe Maniaci to open a second scoring drive. Tony Kaska scored from the one-inch line to tie the score.

The Bulldogs scored in the second period on a 32-yard drive which featured Ed Stark, who went over the line from the four-yard marker, Greene converted.

Los Angeles collected another touchdown early in the fourth period after Lorenz recovered Crayne's fumble on the 33-yard line. Greene shot a short pass to Gore, who ran 25 yards to paydirt. Greene's conversion misfired.

Sarboe, Maniaci, Barrett and Crayne played a spectacular game for Brooklyn while Captain Franklin, Stark, Greene and Gore sparked the Bulldogs.

COLLEGIAN HITS GRID RAMBLERS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 21.—(UP)—Reaction of the nation's athletic and educational leaders was awaited today to the demand of President Lotus Coffman of the University of Minnesota for removal of "commercialism" from college sports.

Coffman, in his biennial report to the Minnesota board of regents, proposed an eight-point program to "reform" the national athletic set-up, which he said is in danger of being "over commercialized and destroyed by the betting public and the poolroom gamblers."

His program included the following proposals:

Support of athletics by endowment funds.

Free admission for students to many, if not all, games.

Curtailment, so far as possible, of activities of professional gamblers.

Elimination of professionalism among college athletes.

Reduction in athletic expenses.

Removal of emphasis from gate receipts.

Increased scholastic standards for athletes.

Games between natural rivals.

STAPLES WHIFFS 15 IN 5-1 IRVINE WIN

Irvine inaugurated its winter league baseball season by turning back the Compton 7-Ups, 5 to 1, in a pitcher's battle at Eddie Martin's Airport diamond yesterday.

Irvine's hurler, "Bud" Staples, struck out 15 batters, while Groves of Compton collared 12.

In winning, Staples turned in a four-hit performance. He was never in serious trouble, though he allowed the 7-Ups team a lone score in the seventh.

"Chub" Sears led the stickwork for the winners, driving out two for three. He hit in two of Irvine's scores, Kuhn hit two for four. His hits were also timely.

REDONDO BEATS LONG BEACH IN MAJOR FINALS

A swishing bucket from the side in the last 20 seconds by Captain Guelff gave Redondo Beach a 22-20 victory over Long Beach Poly and the Major division championship of the Southern Counties basketball tournament at Huntington Beach Saturday night.

Guelff's shot broke the 20-20 deadlock in the hard-fought, major division final that climaxed the light annual event.

"Hod" Chamber's Orange Panthers belted out Dick Glover's Anaheim Colonists, 35 to 19, to win the Intermediate division crown, while Ralph (Big Bill) Cole's Tustin Tilters ran true to form to capture the Minor title.

Francis Boys Shine

In beating Chino, 35-23, Tustin's brothers—Paul and Sam Francis—bumped up the hoop to give the Tilters' their second tournament title in a week. They took the La Verne invitational the previous weekend, defeating San Juan Capistrano in the finals. Tustin met Capistrano again in the semifinals at Huntington Beach, and won with comparative ease, 35 to 10.

Sam Francis, Tustin center, led the scoring activities with 14 points, while his brother Paul assured the Tilters' success with 12 additional markers.

Norman Burbridge was the leading factor in Orange's startling, 35 to 19 victory over Anaheim. He ran up 14 points for individual scoring honors, nosing out Anaheim's husky Ted DeVelbiss, who caged a dozen. A 17-10 triumph over Excelsior put Orange in the Intermediate finals.

Redondo Beach advanced into the finals by turning back Woodbury Wilson's Bruins, 42 to 25. In this game it was Colmer's 18 points that proved the Long Beach team's downfall. Long Beach Poly reached the finals by turning back Whittier, strong Foothill league school, 42 to 28.

County Players Honored

As has been the custom of the annual tournament, coaches and officials gathered to pick three all-star teams following the tournament.

The Francis brothers, Paul and Sam; Mitchell, Chino forward; Del Jones, Valencia guard, and Monterey, Tustin guard, were selected on the Minor division team.

In the Intermediate division, Ted DeVelbiss, Anaheim forward; Flankian, Huntington Beach forward; Schildmeyer, Orange center; and Henderson, Excelsior, and Burbridge, Orange, were selected guards.

As a single Orange county player was named on the major division all-star quintet, Parrish of Long Beach and White of Wilson, received forward honors; Colmer, Redondo center, and Leonard, Long Beach and Meyers, Redondo, guards. So favorable was the work of Captain Guelff of Redondo that he was honored as the sixth man on the selection.

VON ELM'S 279 BAGS S. C. GOLF

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21.—(UP)—George Von Elm, the Lakeside golfer who once held the National Open golf championship, today had the Southern California golf title added to his records after shooting an aggregate 279 for 72 holes, three strokes under his nearest competitor and nine below par on the Oakmont course.

Von Elm shaded par on the first three rounds with marks of 69, 68 and 70, and equaled the 72 par on the last round. His victory gave him the $400 first prize in the $1500 tournament.

Olin Dutra, of the Wilshire Country club, trailed Von Elm as close as two strokes on the last round but was nosed out of second place by Harry Bassler of Long Beach. Bassler totaled 282 for $250 and Dutra carded a 283 for $150.

In the amateur ranks, Ken Rogers of San Antonio, Tex., led with a 284 total. Frank Hixon of Pasadena was second and Pat Abbott, defending champion, third with 291.

Mildred (Babe) Dirdickson, the Dallas, Tex., girl star in the 1932 Olympics, came in last with a 331.

GIANT JOHNSON HERE

Almost as much interest centers in the appearance of the 245-pound unbeaten Thor Johnson against Brother Jonathan. They travel a three-fall route, the same as the main event.

Johnson last week won over the popular Ignacio Martinez, who suffered his first defeat here. Prior to the Martinez match, the Swedish giant scored five or six consecutive wins before embarking on a tour of the Pacific Northwest.

FIELDING AVERAGES SHOW CHICAGO BEST

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(UP)—Three members of the second-place Chicago Cubs win places on the National league's all-star defensive team picked on the basis of official fielding average released today.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who tied the Cubs for second place, and the Brooklyn Dodgers contribute two players each. The team is completed by one player each from the New York Giants, Pittsburgh Pirates and Boston Bees.

The team, composed of the leading fielder at each position who has played in 100 games or more, follows:

VAUGHAN SPEAKS AS FIREMEN RUN AMOK

With Floyd ("Arky") Vaughan, Pittsburgh Pirate shortstop, being presented by Mayor Harry Maxwell of Fullerton, Francis (Pepe) Lemon's Fullerton Firemen defeated "Dad" Gilmore's Auto Auctioneers, 12 to 0, at Fullerton's ball park Sunday.

Although somewhat bashful in public, the Fullerton shortstop surprised everyone when he appeared before the crowd and spoke briefly.

Bridgeport White did not hesitate but went out to get three blows out of four blows. Willie Jones, Placentia youngster, aided the Fullerton cause with three for three. Jone Mene, lanky Anaheim Fireman, collected the lone circuit drive with one aboard. This drive came in the first inning. Louie Neva hit a single and a double.

Both the Brethren and Alliance teams have been in-and-outers. The outcome of this clash may depend on which five is "hot."

Closeup and Comedy

by ERSKINE JOHNSON—GEORGE SCARBO

Jimmy Fidler in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 21.—Every studio has its "official" pose, a good fellow who does not object to being photographed day in and day out with visiting bankers, blue bloods, theater owners, editors, and royalty. Please note, I list royalty last, because so many fake titles come to town. At Warner Brothers, Josephine Hutchinson and Marie Wilson willingly comply with requests to be thus pictured. At 20th Century-Fox the pose is usually Warner Baxter or John Boles. Jean Harlow and Joan Crawford (of all people!) heed such calls at MGM. Paramount and RKO resort to young stock players, for this is a sure way to get publicity for newcomers.

Stars as a rule dodge visitors, but these few "official" posers accede to demands with good grace, and many is the time I have heard publicity workers bless them for their willingness. It occurs to me that I harp often on the studio visitor evil without explaining fully why the stars object (studio officials fume, of course, because a loss of time tourists cause). Well, lace yourself into a star's shoes for the moment. How would you like to be the center of scores, or even hundreds, of staring, fault-picking eyes every working day? It is this "glass house" existence to which stars object.

John Miljan is telling this anecdote about his four-year-old, John, Jr., was sent to kindergarten this year, and at the end of the first day Papa Miljan asked the boy how he liked school. "Aw, they tried to get me to play ring-around-the-rosy," snapped Junior, "and I told them 'Phooey!'"

I have already told the story about Tom Mix's circus wagon drivers who wear one glove only (on the driving hand) because that is all that shows. Well, studios have their own one-glove brigade. Tourists who manage to get inside the gates always ask about them, for there are many on every lot and they do look odd with their single gloves. These men are film cutters. They take miles

'At Home' Party Honors Couple On Anniversary

SPRINGDALE, Dec. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. George Crane were hosts at an "At Home" in observance of their fortieth wedding anniversary recently from 2 p. m. on through the evening, entertaining 60 relatives and friends.

The three daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Crane, Mrs. Anna Graham of Springdale, Mrs. Mary Gisler of Greenville, and Mrs. Florete Gisler of Talbert, acted as co-hostesses, serving refreshments to the different groups upon their arrival at the Crane home. Each guest was given a slice of the anniversary cake which bore 40 candles in commemoration of the wedding. Christmas decorations beautified the rooms and were featured at the serving tables.

It was on December 16, 1896, that the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Crane took place in Clinton, Iowa, at the home of the bride's parents, and one member of that bridal party of 40 years ago, Lee Wentzel of Santa Ana, brother of Mrs. Crane, was present for this celebration. A special feature, which was a surprise for the honorees, was the musical number "I Love You Truly" presented over a radio station in their honor.

Many lovely gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. Crane.

Those present at the reception included the three daughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graham and sons, Alvin Graham and Roger Dean Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gisler, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Gisler, and their son, S. MESA WOMEN HOLD ANNUAL YULE MEETING

COSTA MESA, Dec. 21.—A program of songs and readings, with Christmas as the theme, was given by the Friday Afternoon club at their regular December meeting held in the Woman's clubhouse last week. The Christmas motif was used in the decorations, poinsettias, cottoncandy, pine cones and pine boughs and varicolored candles being used. A beautifully decorated Christmas tree adorned an end of the hall. Mrs. Ruth Erbe, first vice-president and program chairman of the organization, was in charge of the entertainment and decorations.

Included in the program was a reading, "The First Christmas Tree," by Henry Van Dyke, given by Mrs. L. R. Daughenbaugh and two seasonal vocal solos, "Christmas Morn," Bell and Wilson, and "Christmas Song," Adams, by Mrs. Harold Long. Mrs. Long was accompanied by Mrs. C. A. Custer. Eleanor Buckles of Orange gave "Fifth Nocturne," Leyback and

The agricultural committee of the club has completed all plans for the program. Wednesday's meeting will be the first to be opened by the gavel of R. B. TOWNSEND IN ADDRESS HERE PROMISES IMPROVEMENTS IN PLAN; TAX SYSTEM IS HIT

Promising 200 improvements in the new Townsend plan program to be announced soon, with no change in principle; declaring absolute need for change in our present tax system to avoid disaster, and adding that a new distribution of wealth is necessary through placement of money into circulation, Dr. Francis E. Townsend appeared at the high school auditorium Saturday evening to lead a mass meeting group of 1500 persons who gave him a noisy welcome which took the form of an ovation when he announced he would go to jail before he would pay a fine for contempt of the Congressional committee which "put him on the spot" some months ago.

"Remember, I'll never pay one cent of that fine, if they fine me!" he exclaimed. "I'll go to jail first. Anyhow, I'd kind of like to see what the inside of a jail is like. There's no stigma attached to such an incarceration. I have a book to finish and I could do it in six months. Besides, it would be a nice rest."

"If I have shown contempt of this Congressional investigating committee, I haven't shown half enough contempt for it!" he continued, as the close of his address came. "That committee went far beyond its prerogative!"

Speaking of future plans, Dr. Townsend declared the "future" has no terrors for me. We are really going to do something. So far, the young, generally, have looked askance at us—have wondered at us. But now everything points to the consummation of our task. Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, even the Central and Southern states are becoming permeated with our doctrine.

The featured speaker said he recently spent an hour with an eminent Republican who told him that "we have all mapped out, a Townsend program, and are solidly back of you."

Can't Increase Taxes
"We cannot increase taxes any more," Dr. Townsend said. "Twenty million people have been on the dole and we can't countenance that. Taxes must be on the ability to pay. I believe that taxing of property always has been unconstitutional because the system is not equitable nor just. Not all of the rich dodge taxes but a great many of them do and the little fellow is at the bottom of the heap."

The two great needs, Dr. Townsend said, are Change in the tax system so that it includes all; circulation of money so that a proper distribution of wealth is accomplished. He said the Townsend plan is thoroughly permeating the nation and mentioned numerous areas which have "gone Townsend."

"There is very strong support in the new Congress and the President, I firmly believe, will listen when Congress speaks," he declared. "While he was campaigning for re-election, the President had to follow certain plans. I do not believe he will go along under his present ideas. He had to battle to win re-election and he had to use certain methods. Now the situation is different. We are going to be kind to the Democrats if they will just let us wedge in our social security plan. We have some 50 men from the northwestern states who are very able. Senator Borah, Idaho, will push our plan with all his might—he has promised me that. We are trying to remove all cause of complaint in our bill to be placed before Congress and 200 improvements have been made without changing our principle. It will not be long until we can get our proposition through at the $200 per month figure. Only scarcity creates high prices. Of course, if everyone started spending $200 a month tomorrow, our plan would fail. Under the new plan, no money would be distributed for five months, allowing time to lay in new supplies.

Democracy Not Dead
"We are getting to that day when we are abandoning the idea that we all must get rich," he continued. "Everybody is getting ready for that day when we will get to the point that we are good neighbors, broader and happier. Eventually, the things we need will be easy to obtain—pressing a button will start our factories rolling. We aren't far from that good day. Let your imagination go—there is nothing we can't attain. Once we show the young they can step into a job when they want it, just then the world will see that war is folly. Democracy has not begun to die; it has just started to live. I have been receiving letters from foreign countries inquiring about our plan. Our only lack is ability to disseminate information through lack of money. We have been criticized for spending so much money. Why, if I had a million a month, I'd spend it all to disseminate information to all peoples."

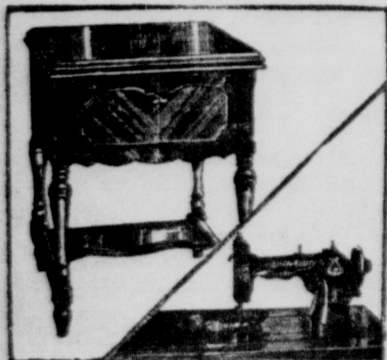

Dr. Townsend had "hopes" for the "Townsend Weekly," that it might, through $2 membership revenue yearly, pay expenses of the organization. He said he had "a very imperative call" to Washington, D. C., soon. "But if I have shown contempt for this Congressional committee, I haven't shown it half enough!" he exclaimed. "They went far beyond their prerogative. Remember, I'll never pay a fine. I'd kinda like to see what the inside of a jail looks like, anyhow." He referred to his recent arrest on action of a federal grand jury, indicting him for contempt by leaving the hearing room without permission.

Councilman Ernest H. Layton, representing Mayor Fred Rowland at the meet, introduced Dr. Townsend. He said the Townsend program, when he first met Dr. Townsend, would never go over, but Dr. Townsend assured him "you wait and see." "I have been a dud as a predictor," Layton said.

H. F. Kenny, Santa Ana, led the community singing. He led a stirring appeal for money to carry on, which netted more than $200 from the crowd. Harry Riley, Clyde Watson, Steele Finley and Harry Westover, recently elected Townsends, were introduced. Westover introducing Edward Trefz, well-known speaker, who outlined the hopes of the Townsend organization, in a timely speech. J. H. Walsh, district organizer for the 19th Congressional district, was master-of-ceremonies.

ANAHEIM RESIDENT TO GIVE LECTURES

All Santa Anans and Orange county residents have been invited to attend the opening meeting of a free public lecture course, to be conducted by J. E. Hammond, well-known Anaheim resident, at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the K. of P. hall, 225 Center street, Anaheim.

"The Destiny of Nations," is the subject of the first of the weekly meetings of the course, which is entitled, "A Bible Kingdom Lecture Series."

Hammond, an assistant pastor before he came to California years ago, has been a resident of Anaheim for 12 years. He previously resided in Fullerton for two years. "The aim of my work is to conduct these lectures as a non-sectarian, non-political aid to every pastor," Hammond explained, "and to make the Bible a closer companion to every Christian and truth seeker."

Other subjects to be discussed at future weekly meetings include: "The United States in Pyramid and Bible Prophecy," "Coming of a Latter Day Rain Awakening for America" and "Under the Shed Blood of Jesus Christ, the Only Place of Safety."

CHURCHES OF CHRIST SCIENTIST

"Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast laid the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the works of thine hands." These words from the epistle to the Hebrews were the Golden Text in the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon was, "Is the Universe, including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?"

Among the Scriptural citations in the Lesson-Sermon were these verses from the Psalms: "O come, let us sing unto the Lord: let us make a joyful noise to the rock of our salvation. Let us come before his presence with thanksgiving, and make a joyful noise unto him with psalms. For the Lord is a great God, and a great King above all gods. . . . O come, let us worship and bow down: let us kneel before the Lord our maker. For he is our God; and we are the people of his pasture, and the sheep of his hand."

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: "Spirit and its formations are the only realities of being. Matter disappears under the microscope of Spirit."

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 21.—Miss Nancy Bumpus, 19-year-old Pasadena Junior College girl, has been chosen as the Queen of the Forty-Eighth Annual Tournament of Roses to be held in Pasadena on New Year's Day, 1937.

Accompanied by six princesses, Miss Bumpus will lead a magnificent parade composed of floats which will interpret through the medium of flowers an idea in keeping with the theme, "Romance." Fifty-three floats, representing cities, organizations and business groups, will be interspersed among 20 odd bands and dozens of the West's finest horses, all with silver mounted saddles and bridles, their riders dressed in Spanish costumes of every color.

The parade will start promptly at 9:30 a. m., moving north from California along South Orange Grove avenue to Colorado St., east on Colorado to Hill Avenue, south on Hill to California, then west on California to Tournament Park. The floats will remain on exhibition at Tournament Park from 2 p. m. New Year's day until 4 p. m. of the next day, with special flood lights at night.

Special precautions are being taken to handle the tremendous crowds which converge upon Pasadena each New Year's day. White lines are to be painted at a distance of four to eight feet from the curb and parallel with it to form a boundary for the

Pilot Is Film Hero

BY JANET C. WATSON

LaVerne Brown, formerly of Orange, and until recently crack TWA pilot is an illustration of the oft quoted statement "Local Boy Makes Good." Stepping from the cockpit of an airplane into motion pictures, he is on his way to fame and fortune. In the late summer, Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Brown, 282 South Olive street, Orange, signed a year's contract with Paramount studios. Since he entered motion pictures, Brown has become John Trent, following the example of many other motion picture actors in changing his name for screen purposes. He has already completed his first picture in which he played the role of air pilot. In his second picture, Brown played the part of a chauffeur. His first leading role is in "The Doctor's Diary," which is soon to be released by Paramount. Produced by B. P. Schulberg, Brown's discoverer, and directed by Charles Vidor, the cast includes: John Trent, Helen Burgess, George Bancroft, Charles Waldron and Mollie Lamont.

Gets Big Chance

Brown's opportunity to enter pictures came when B. P. Schulberg, Hollywood producer, was aboard a plane which he was piloting. Schulberg offered Brown a screen test and a contract with Paramount studios on his next visit to the coast, believing that he would be a successful actor. The young pilot accepted the offer upon arriving in Hollywood and proved to be "a natural."

Everyone in Orange remembers LaVerne Brown as a serious grey-eyed boy with a natural talent for playing the violin, and an inclination for drama, taking part in many of the high school plays. His real talents came forth, however, after leaving high school. Graduating from Orange union high school in 1934, Brown worked at odd jobs until he had the chance to engage in his life-long ambition, that of learning to fly. He studied for six months at Lindbergh field at San Diego during the year of 1935, from which course he proceeded to Hancock College of Aeronautics at Santa Maria, where he graduated in January, 1936. Some time later, he took his final examination papers and became a second lieutenant in the reserve officers corps at Long Beach. His signing up with the TWA took place two years ago, in 1934. Prior to that time, Brown went to North Carolina where he took up aeronautics in a most dangerous way. It was during that year that he became stunt flying champion of the state of North Carolina. With his heart set upon becoming a TWA pilot, Brown studied to pass any and every examination which the lines could offer.

Passes Test

TWA was looking for an expert flyer in 1934, and knowing this, Brown took the examination in the state of Virginia, on the chance that he might be selected to go to Kansas City, Mo. Out of 1000 applicants in Virginia, Brown was chosen, and sent to Kansas City for a month's intensive training. From that time on, until his chance meeting with B. P. Schulberg, he flew his plane on regular TWA schedule between Kansas City and the coast, never dreaming that he would be doing grease paint and studying another profession, under another name, that of John Trent, actor.

Of local interest, was the appearance Saturday evening of Brown, in the preview showing at the Fox Broadway theater of Edwards Arnold's latest picture, "John Mead's Woman," produced by Paramount. This picture marked Brown's first appearance in Orange county in the films. He played the part of a chauffeur. He has already appeared several times on the radio, having dramatized his rise to fame last Wednesday evening on a Hollywood radio station, at 9:45 p. m., on the program announced as "Air Romances." The 15-minute interval was concluded with a word from "John Trent," himself, who sent a personal "Hello," over the air waves to his many friends and well-wishers.

MAKES GOOD

Happy landing! That's what La Verne Brown, former Orange resident and T.W.A. pilot, made recently when he landed in Hollywood with a year's motion picture contract in his pocket. Dame Fortune gave him B. P. Schulberg, Paramount director, for a passenger one day with the above result.

REMEMBER
STRIKERS' CHILDREN

A Christmas party for the children of Mexican citrus strikers now serving sentences in the county jail for rioting will be given at the Unitarian church on the day after Christmas, Saturday afternoon, December 26.

The Rev. Julia N. Budlong, minister of the church, in announcing the party, said that, foreseeing "very little cheer" in their households, she felt that "Christmas without a visit from Santa Claus might well sow a resentment in some of these children's hearts that would issue in bitter fruit for society in years to come."

A Christmas tree is already in place. The Junior Fellowship of the church will forego its own Christmas eve party, in order to provide refreshments, and the adults of the church will be asked to "see that there is a modest gift for each of the 25 invited children." It was further suggested that the seven mothers would appreciate some warm and practical gift for themselves, from the tree.

Miss Katharine Blank of this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Blank, of San Bernardino and Henry C. Vaughn, son of Mrs. Lettie Vaughn of Newport Beach, were bride and bridegroom at a quiet ceremony which took place yesterday in Los Angeles Grace Lutheran church.

The young couple exchanged vows before the Rev. O. W. Wismar, pastor of the church, with the bride's brother, Leon H. Blank of Los Angeles as the only attendant. Four o'clock was the hour for the ceremony.

Miss Blank was attractive in a navy blue suit with grey squirrel trimming and other accessories in grey. Her smart appearance was completed with an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn, who left for a short honeymoon trip of unannounced destination, will be at home to their friends in the near future. Their address will be 2612 Coast Boulevard, Newport Beach. The bridegroom will resume his duties as manager of a service station. The new Mrs. Vaughn, a teacher in Santa Ana schools, is a popular member of Wrycenda Maedgen club. J. C. Christmas Dance
Is Gala Affair For Large Group

In a lovely ball room overlooking with tiny stars and arrayed festively in blue and silver, alumni, faculty, and students of Santa Ana Junior college Friday night gathered at Huntington Beach Memorial Hall for their annual Christmas ball.

Climaxing the evening of dancing was the appearance of Santa Claus who arrived as the evening neared its close and, after circling a blue and silver Christmas tree stationed in one corner, mounted the steps of the orchestra platform and announced he had gifts for all good people. Merriment reached its height when members of the student body, faculty, and alumni were called to the platform to receive humorous gifts to which were attached clever notes of explanation and suggestion.

The dance, a semi-formal affair in honor of the Jaycee alumni and with members of the board of education and Junior college faculty as special guests, was proclaimed by Miss Frances Was, student chairman of the affair, as the best attended dance of the year.

Students who added Miss Was were Miss Dorothy Pettit, in charge of decorations, Miss Jean Mulbar, who secured punch, and Lawrence Trickey, who supervised the checking of wraps. Aiding Miss Pettit with decorations were Miss Mary Henderson, and Messrs. Carl Aubrey and Dick Mather. Herman Sadler aided Miss Mulbar with the punch. Mrs. Helen Deaton, of the Junior college business office took charge of tickets at the door.

Providing music for the affair was Glen Gilmore's orchestra.

Those who enjoyed the lovely hospitality were the Misses Elaine McReynolds, Betty Hammond, Lavonne Frandson, Margery Fullender and Messrs. Hugh Plumb, Dick Phillips, Bob Alexander and Philip Yould.

Annual Yule Custom

Grouard Home

When the Franklin Grouard home at 1076 West Fourth street was opened Friday night to members of District 16, California Nurses' Association, it was in maintenance of an annual custom of Mrs. Grouard to act as hostess at the Christmas meeting of the organization of which she is a member.

The home reflected the true spirit of Christmas in every detail including the holly and pine wreaths in each window, the white cellophane Christmas tree, a beautiful Nativity scene encircled with red tapers, and the snow-banked village scene decorating the buffet. All of these charming details had been worked out by the hostess, as were appointments of tables where a dessert course was served. Each was spread with red and white checked linen centered with a snow scene with white tapers in the form of Christmas angels.

Mrs. Van Wagener, crafts chairman of Anaheim Elbell club, gave an interesting talk on Christmas decorations and wrappings, illustrating with examples of both. This was followed by a session of progressive hearts in which Mrs. Julia Salisbury and Mrs. Jeanne Grandy took first and second prizes. The prize award was followed by the annual gift exchange, during which each one made a contribution to the fund for remembrances for those fellow nurses yet confined to the nurses' cottage for convalescing polio-litis patients.

Holiday Dance Brings
Club Activities to Happy Climax

Wrycenda Maedgen club's activities for 1936 reached a happy climax Saturday night with a semi-formal dance which members and guests enjoyed in the Y. W. rooms.

Miss Helen Glancy, dance chairman, had arranged a charming setting which suggested a blue and silver motif. Overhead lights were softened by blue lanterns made for the occasion by Miss Glancy and a group of assistants including the Misses Katherine Spicer, Mary Ford and Roma Mayes.

Glowing and sparkling like an immense jewel was the lantern whose red, blue and green lights shone from the stage where Lacy Swaine's orchestra played. A Christmas tree in a corner of the ballroom added to the festive setting.

Arrival of Miss Katharine Blank and Henry Vaughn was awaited with special interest, because when they entered the room the notes of the Wedding March were sounded. "Alice Blue Gown" was dedicated to the couple, whose marriage took place yesterday afternoon in Los Angeles.

The Misses Genevieve Humiston, Dorothy Decker and Mary W. Howard were judges in a prize waltz contest which was won by Miss Jean Ema and Ivan Scott, who were presented with a giant-size candy cane.

Mrs. Tessmann
Entertains At Annual Affair

Each year as Christmas approaches, Sigma chapter members of Beta Sigma Phi have a delightful event in prospect, the party which their honorary member, Mrs. John A. Tessmann, stages in her home, 309 East Seventeenth street.

The current observance was one of the happiest of the series, and found full appreciation from the guests assembled Friday night. The home was radiant with Yuletide color and cheer, wreathed with coterieaster sprays, great clusters of poinsettias and bowls of red roses. The Yule log crackled and snapped on the hearth, below a mantel where the Madonna and her angels were depicted.

From the sun room where the Christmas tree sparkled, came the strains of well loved Christmas melodies, played on the zither by Mr. Tessmann. This set the key for the beautiful reading of Van Dyke's "The Other Wise Man" by Ernest Crosier Phillips. The gift exchange from the tree was a gay interval, with Mr. Tessmann acting as Santa Claus. Identities of "Christmas belles" were thus revealed and members drew names for the same custom to be observed next year.

When Mrs. Tessmann served refreshments, she included the traditional wassail served from a green bowl centering the charming green and silver table appointments which included tiny trees circled with wreaths of desert holly.

Adding to the pleasure of the party was the presence of Miss Beulah May, sponsor of Sigma chapter, who so recently underwent a serious operation, and of Miss Lillie Forsberg, just recovering from the effects of an automobile accident.

Others present with the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Tessmann, and special guests, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Newell Moore, educational director of the chapter and Mrs. F. E. Coulter, an honorary member, were the Misses Jean Ema, Mary Ford, Marie LaBrucherie, Hazel Lee, Delphina Lopez, Lillian Malin, Lucie McDermott, Lillian McDonald, Elsie Siemsen, Isabelle Sircace, Katherine Spicer, Mildred Staples, Ruth Stephenson, Lena May Wilsey, Mary Louise Wallace, Mesdames Robert Callis (Dorothy Lindsay), Sam Cash (Caroline Smith) and Bill Long (Loretta Einspahr).

Varsity Football Man
To Take New Post
After Holidays

Last night when the train bearing the Berkeley football squad went through Los Angeles en route to Georgia, where the men will play Georgia Tech at Atlanta on the day after Christmas, there were no more deeply interested friends at the station to wave farewell than Mrs. Floyd Blower (Margaret Finley) and her two nieces, the Misses Helen and Virginia Blower.

For prominent among the football men was Floyd Blower, back on the team, and who this month completes his Berkeley study course. Of special interest to Santa Ana friends of the young athlete, who has continued at Berkeley the scholastic and athletic record of his Santa Ana school days, will be the fact that Blower is to return from Georgia to the post awaiting him as the university's field representative in Southern California.

The players are expected to return about January 6, and Mr. and Mrs. Blower will be here until about the middle of January with Santa Ana relatives, including Mr. Blower's mother, Mrs. Mary Blower, 1720 Polinetta street, and Mrs. Blower's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Finley, Lemon Heights.

Mrs. Blower will complete her political science course in May. In the meantime Mr. Blower will give his time to study the workings of the northern office preparatory to locating in the Southland in the early spring. His work will be along the line of organizing Berkeley graduates of Southern California, and until he establishes his permanent headquarters here, he will make only weekend trips from the northern headquarters.

Club Group Welcomed
At Pleasant Party
In Orange Home

Among the many pleasant Christmas observances which various club groups have staged, was that of late the past week when Miss Helen Kobler entertained in her North Glassell street home, Orange.

Enhancing the holly decorations and the charm of the decorated Christmas tree, were appointments of the table for serving a tempting Christmas salad course and a dessert course of pumpkin pie whose whipped cream snow was imprinted with gaudy bells. Miss Kobler had fashioned the decorations herself, the amusing little Santa Claus with reindeer and sleigh, and the tarleton bags of candy which were favors. Red tapers were used in lighting.

She had fashioned the clever tally cards as well, a complete set for each of the several games introduced. They were bells, candles, trees and all the insignia of the season. Prizes went to Mrs. Henry Babylon and the Misses Helen Lutz, Margaret Young and Barbara Johnson. A gift exchange was the climax of the entertainment program.

In the party with Miss Kobler were Mesdames Rhoe Foust, Roy Yoder, William Abrahamson, Henry Babylon, John Bruns, the Misses Helen Kubitz, Margaret Young, Barbara Johnson and Helen Lutz, members of the club group, with two special guests, Mrs. Kenneth Chandler and Mrs. Charles Fenton.

The Mixing Bowl

By Ann Meredith

When dinner must be a pick-up, scrappy meal, offset the lack by serving some sort of delicious hot bread. Here is one you can bake quickly as a "sheet" bread, or more slowly, in loaf form.

Orange Nut Bread
Peel from two oranges, chopped fine and cooked 15 minutes with 1 cup sugar, 2 tbsps butter
1 cup water and
2 scant tps sugar. Cool and add 1 egg, well beaten
Sift 3 cups flour with 2 tps baking powder.
Mix smoothly and add 1 cup chopped walnuts.

For quick baking, spread the batter an inch deep in a large buttered pan and bake in a quick oven (450 degrees for 10 minutes, finishing the baking in a cooler oven). Serve in squares with butter, jam or orange marmalade. Baked as a loaf, allow 11-2 hours in a moderate oven. If any of the bread is left over, split it, spread with soft butter and toast for breakfast next morning.

Keep your body reasonably stream-lined for health and the happiness that a trim figure always brings. Let us help you do this with our Safe and Sane reducing diet. A stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the diet is all we ask of you.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Camouflaged Carrots
3 cups thinly sliced carrots
1 No. 2 can tomatoes
1 large onion
1 cup diced bacon (loose measure)
Boil carrots in salted water. Fry bacon and chopped onion until onion is soft and yellow. Add tomato and simmer for 10 minutes, add carrots and continue simmering until ready to serve.

Carrot-haters will re-nig when the vegetable is served this way: slice carrots paper-thin, put them in a heavy covered kettle with a couple of tablespoons of salad oil, a clove of garlic, crushed, a teaspoon of sugar, a little salt and a good dusting of COARSELY ground black pepper. Saute over a low flame until the carrots are tender, remove the garlic and serve.

Banana Whip Parfait

8 almond macaroons, toasted
4 ripe bananas, mashed and scalded with
8 tbsps sugar and the juice of one lemon.
Cool and add a pinch of salt.
1-2 tsp, each vanilla and almond extracts
2 egg whites beaten stiff with 4 tbsps powdered sugar
1 cup heavy cream, whipped stiff.

While the bananas are being scalded, roll the toasted macaroons to a fine crumb and pat them against sides and bottom of a buttered refrigerator pan. To the cold banana mixture add whipped egg whites and flavoring extracts, mix lightly and fold in the whipped cream. Spoon into the macaroon-lined pan, cover top with macaroon crumbs and freeze for four or five hours without disturbing. The recipe serves eight.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

JUBILEE FOR THE WORLD'S WEALTHIEST MAN

HIS Exalted Highness, Asaf Jah, Muzaffar-ul-Mulk-Wal Mumukshu, Nizam-ul-Mulk, Nizam-ud-Daula Nawab Mir Sir Asman Ali Khan Bahadur Fatch Jung, the Nizam of Hyderabad, India, and reputed wealthiest man in the world, this year celebrates his silver jubilee as ruler of this vast and populous Indian territory.

Instead of receiving gifts from his people, he is giving them valuable presents. For, in honor of his 25th year as ruler of Hyderabad, the Nizam has set aside millions to clear slums from his cities, to reclaim land, build highways, and establish modern radio stations. In each town he has placed a modern radio receiver, so that his people may hear the voices that come through the air in the four main languages of the land.

Hyderabad, being a feudal state, conveys all the income from its natural wealth—in coal, cement, silk, cotton, oilseeds—to the Nizam. His wealth, as a result, is said to be unsurpassed. He has given much of it to education and scholarships, as well as many local charities.

His seal appears on three different stamps of his country, one of which is shown here.

Those to be released today were Jose Venegas, Herlindo Perez, Eliseo Alvarez, Domingo Escamilla, Simon Sarinana, Adolfo Sepulveda, Francisco Espinoza and Aureo Ruiz. All were sentenced August 7 to serve 10 months each in county jail.

Menton's letter to Jackson, said: "I am sending herewith, eight orders for parole of persons arrested and convicted during the strike. Two of these, Aureo Ruiz and Domingo Escamilla, are the two paroles requested by the welfare department for the purpose of transportation to places of residence established elsewhere. The other six are a portion of the group of 10 out of 13, which were convicted and sentenced by Judge Allen.

"I am sending these to you in order that you may be advised as to the action we have taken. I am fully aware of your position in this matter and do not expect you to alter that position. While I respect your opinion, I cannot agree with it in this case and I am of the opinion that good will result from the granting of these paroles. It would be the line of least resistance for me to deny these paroles, but being convinced it is the proper thing to do, I have only one course to pursue and that is to grant the paroles.

"Will you kindly see that these are delivered to the jailer in order that they may become effective today?"

THREE JAILED ON ASSAULT CHARGES

After they assertedly struck Proprietor Paul James of the Buffalo Inn, Fourth and Birch streets, over the head with a beer bottle and knocked out two of his front teeth, Ronald Stum, 19, 378 South Orange avenue, Orange; Frank Meyer, alias Joe Henderson, 169 North Shafter, Orange; and Ray E. Fellows, 21-year-old sailor of the USS Evans, were jailed early this morning on charges of assault with deadly weapon and intoxication.

The men were arrested by Officers C. V. Adams, Paul Cozad and Chet Gross after being traced to Bob's cafe on 101 highway, between Santa Ana and Anaheim. The asserted assault occurred when James, complaining the men were creating a disturbance, went outside of his cafe to call police.

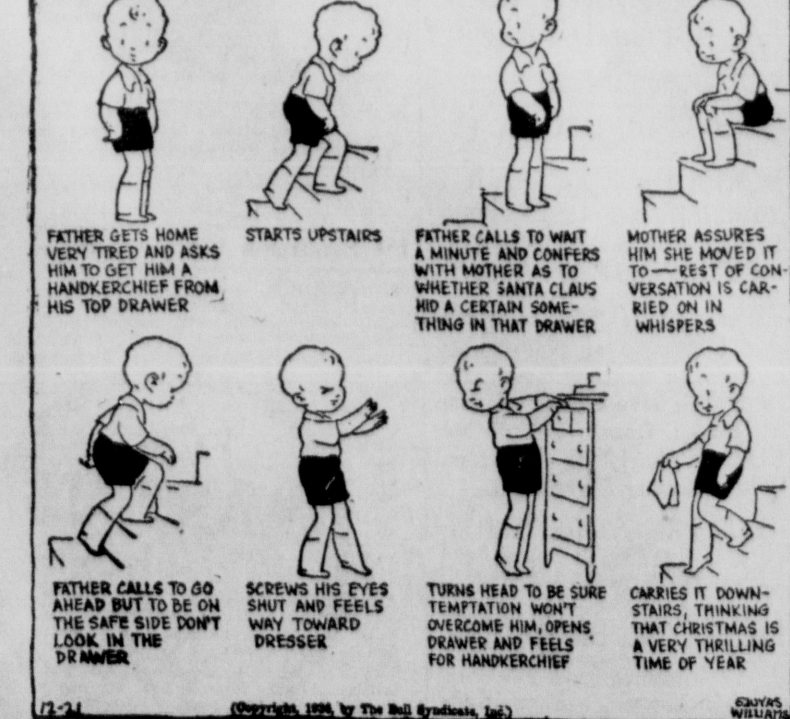

City Swelters On First Day of Winter

Believe it or not, this is the first day of winter, Santa Ana's who were downtown today perspiring while they did their Christmas shopping were inclined to greet the statement with a skeptical "Oh Yeah?" as they mopped their brows with handkerchiefs. But the fact remains that this is the first day of winter.

It also is the shortest day of the year—but aren't they all short just before Christmas? Back in the snow-bound east it is easy to believe that this is the first day of winter but here in Santa Ana, with the sun shining brightly, shirt-sleeved men on the streets and women sleepers having discarded their coats—well—it may be the first day of winter but who cares? It is also hot as—almost any summer day.

FORTY MILES OF CHRISTMAS SMILES BLAZE WITH LIGHTS

Saturday night "40 miles of Christmas Smiles" blazed forth along Orange county's coast line when Christmas lights along the county's coast line were turned on for the first time this season.

Illumination of the coast line has been fostered by Dr. C. G. Huston and the Orange County Coast Association for several years and culminates in the awarding of prizes for community and individual efforts in several classifications. The plan was originated for the purpose of extending the season's greetings to coast communities to travelers along the highways.

In San Clemente an illuminated shrine has been constructed and at Dana Point the miniature Christmas village, so popular last year, has been revived and will be open from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m., Wednesday and Saturday nights.

At San Juan Capistrano, Three Arches and South Laguna elaborate patterns in home lighting greet the traveler while in the City of Laguna beach the city streets have been decorated under auspices of the Lions Club. The municipal tree has been located on top of the water company office.

In Huntington Beach the Standard Oil Company tree has been lighted while the city shrine and Christmas scene, located in the center of town is the municipal contribution to the illumination program. The city's community party will be held Wednesday night.

Newport-Balboa in centering its efforts in decorations at The Arches where huge illuminated stars have been erected. Another star has been placed on Coast highway where the road turns to Balboa Island.

Judging in the contest is scheduled for the night after Christmas, according to Dr. Huston. Members of the judging committee will tour the various communities awarding prizes for: Best illuminated and decorated community; best community shrine; best decorated service station owned by an oil company; best privately owned service station; best illuminated and decorated business house; best illuminated and decorated home; best illuminated and decorated outdoor; private individual and the best illuminated and decorated Christmas tree displayed inside a private home.

Members of the judging committee this year will be: Ted Kuchel, Anaheim; Corb Sarchet, Brea; Frank Rospaw, Placentia; Vernon King, Garden Grove and Charles M. Vernon, Yorba Linda.

YOUTHS OF S. A. BOW TO OLD AGE DURING DANCES ON TUESDAY

When does youth bow to old-age in Santa Ana and Orange county? "The answer is easy," one elderly Santa Ana woman dance enthusiast told a reporter of The Register this morning.

"It's when tender memories of love and romance in the early '90's are called by hundreds of folks hereabouts with slow strains of the minuet at the public 'old-time' dances Tuesday nights in our home town."

She referred to the dance that will be staged at 8 p. m. tomorrow at The Palms dance hall at Third and Ross streets.

"You know," she continued with a gracious smile, "it's really a shame about how we old folks are treated. We like good times just as well as the young folks, but we can't have them at any of their dances.

"These are times we can assert ourselves, and we are never driven to the sidelines by the young folks and their ideas of a good time with jazz-time rhythm and syncopation. We sure enjoy ourselves at these dances, where the young ones are wall-flowers because they don't know how to dance!

"Just tell everybody that knows these beautiful steps that they are invited. We have them every Tuesday night down there, but we never have had a good story about them like they write about other affairs. The dances were first sponsored by the Long Beach Old Age Pension-Townsend groups. What we want is publicity so everybody will be there."

Music for the occasion, which will feature the schottische, the minuet, square dance, old-time waltzes and other numbers of the eroline era, will be played by the Long Beach band of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pederson, specialists in this type of entertainment.

RECREATIONAL PROJECT HERE OPENED TODAY

Orange county's recreational project, recently incorporated into a district WPA project, is under way with 105 playground instructors attending school daily until schools are reopened after the Christmas holidays.

According to F. P. Jayne who has charge of the project in Orange county, the school is being conducted in the SRA building under direction of Truscott Lindsey who has been named county recreational supervisor replacing R. R. Russick who has been promoted to the post of district recreational supervisor with headquarters in San Diego.

Russick will be general supervisor for the recreational project in both San Diego and Orange counties.

The classes being held for playground instructors, Jayne said, are for the purpose of instructing them in the most modern methods of playground work and making them more efficient in their work.

The project, as it will start with the reopening of school, will direct playgrounds in 23 Orange county communities with 105 instructors on duty. After January 1, Jayne said, it is expected to extend the quota to other communities, ultimately employing the original quota of 160 instructors.

In so far as possible, Jayne said, former instructors on the project are being retained for the new program. However, many of them have found private employment while others are working on other projects. The limitation of 105 instructors, also limited the number of former instructors to be returned immediately to work. Jayne said that he hopes to have all of the instructors, who have not found private employment back on the project.

Mrs. Henrietta Stowell, supervisor of playgrounds for the southern district, including all county coast communities, has been appointed to the same position. Mrs. Josephine Dorio has been named supervisor for the northern district, including Anaheim, Fullerton, Brea, La Habra and other northern county towns and Lindsey, in addition to supervising the entire county project, will have charge of the central area, including Santa Ana and Orange.

MRS. CLARA SMITH PASSES AT HEMET

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m., in Hemet for Mrs. Clara Delight Smith, 37, former resident of Santa Ana, who died Friday at her home in Hemet. In addition to the service to be held at the Hemet funeral home graveside services will be conducted at 2 p. m. at Fairhaven cemetery.

Mrs. Smith, who lived in Santa Ana for 20 years before her removal to Hemet, is survived by her husband, Earl W. Smith; five sons, Robert Rounds, of San Bernardino; Earl W. Jr., Richard P., Donald E., and Laurence Jay, all of Hemet; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Rounds, Santa Ana, and four sisters, Mrs. Leah Day, Pine River, Minn.; Mrs. Susie Bigalk, Chino; and Mrs. Eldora Purrington and Mrs. Esther Morse, both of Santa Ana.

DEFENSE LOSES FIRST MOTION IN THEFT CASE

Defeated in its attempt to dismise one of the two counts being prosecuted, the defense of W. K. Murphy, San Bernardino ice machine dealer accused of grand theft and issuing a bogus check, today was engaged in presenting its version of the case to a jury in Superior Judge H. G. Ames' court.

When the state finished its evidence shortly before court recessed last Thursday, Defense Attorney R. E. Gilchrist offered a motion that the prosecution should be required to elect which of the two charges it should stand upon, the other to be dismissed. The motion was denied.

Murphy is accused of receiving a cashier's check of $1000 from George S. Ward, of Long Beach, for the purchase of ice-machine equipment which was not delivered to Ward, and also giving Ward a no-fund check of $450 on the deal.

David O. Pearson, former salesman employed by Murphy, was on the witness stand for the defense today, testifying to the adequate amount of equipment kept on hand by Murphy, a matter questioned by the prosecution; also testifying to conversations between Ward, Murphy and himself covering details of the agreement made with Ward and the handling of the checks exchanged.

Pearson said Murphy had told Ward, when giving him the $450 check, that he lacked funds in the bank to cover it, but would have the amount on hand by the time the check reached the bank. Pearson also said Ward himself delayed delivery of the equipment, by telling Pearson over the telephone that he had decided he had ordered too much equipment.

Before these various matters could be handled, Ward filed charges against Murphy, the defense contends.

SECOND KARL'S SHOE STORE OPENED HERE

The second Karl's Shoe store, opened informally today, at 207 East Fourth street, with a pre-Christmas showing of shoe styles for men, women and children. Joe Kane, manager of the two stores, said that the formal opening will be held after Christmas at a date to be announced later.

The new store is one of the newest and most modern shoe stores in the city with completely rugged floors and interior fixtures designed to facilitate the showing of merchandise. All stock in the new store is in the latest style for fall and winter wear and is being offered the Christmas shopper at prices based on quantity purchasing ability.

With the opening of the new establishment the original Karl's Shoe store, 101 West Fourth street, will continue to serve patrons offering the same lines of goods in the new store.

Court Notes

Arthur Stone, San Diego, paid a $5 fine for speeding when he faced City Judge J. G. Mitchell Saturday. Vernon Cayner paid $1 for using more than one stall in parking his car, and Robert Heibel paid $2 for boulevard-stop jumping.

Charles Leench, 315 East First street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of being intoxicated and trial was set for tomorrow morning at 10. Bail was set at $25.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

THE Bennett Juniper, aged tree recently brought to light in California, grows in a wind-swept elevation of 8500 feet, in the Sierras of Tuolumne county. It is only 80 feet in height, but has a trunk diameter of 21 feet at the ground. It is a rugged old veteran of 1000 years before the birth of Christ.

DOZEN INJURED IN MOTOR MISHAPS OVER WEEK-END

A dozen persons were injured during the week end traffic in Orange county, in as many accidents, reports to police and hospital officials revealed today.

M. E. Walcher, 109 Oxford street, Santa Ana, was rushed to Santa Ana Valley hospital this morning following an automobile accident in which he suffered fractured pelvis. C. R. Straw, 26, 1009 North Main, Santa Ana was booked at county jail on charges of being drunk and drunk driving, after an accident in front of a 101 highway cafe between here and Anaheim. Straw's car collided with one operated by Earl G. Stanbro, Route 3, Anaheim, who was backing his car from the cafe parking yard. None was injured.

Eight persons were injured about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon on Manchester boulevard, just outside of Orange county, in Los Angeles county, as a light truck operated by two Artesia men, Messrs. Cato and Ailing, collided with a car driven by Raymond Freeman, 110 North Princeton, Fullerton. The Artesia men were taken to an Artesia hospital, with cuts and bruises; Freeman suffered four broken ribs and possible skull fracture; Mrs. Freeman, bones and bruises; Jean Freeman, shock fractures.

Freeman's sister, Miss Leona Freeman, Orange, suffered fractured nose; Mrs. Clara Vestal, another sister, Orange, both arms broken, and Mrs. Vestal's daughter, Bernice, fractured ribs. The Freeman family was taken to Fullerton General hospital.

R. H. Riggan, about 34, 337 East America, Fullerton, was injured Friday night at Santa Fe and Harvard, Fullerton, when his truck collided with a car operated by an unidentified woman.

Douglas Chambers, Fullerton, former highway patrol officer, was crossing Manchester boulevard, walking, the same night, when a car operated by Jack A. Prizer, Fullerton, manager of the Placentia Orange Growers association, struck him.

Arthur Cox, 23, 112 East Elm, Fullerton, escaped miraculously, about 4:30 p. m. yesterday, as he put on his brakes suddenly to avoid cars which had stopped in front of him, between Hillcrest Park and Brea on the Brea road. The car ran up the side of an embankment, turned over and burned. Cox crawled from the car before it was consumed by flames.

Three persons, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin L. Redford, 1327 South Van Ness, Santa Ana, and Mrs. Nellie Cline, 111 Main street, Placentia, were injured Saturday afternoon in Anaheim, as cars driven by Mrs. Redford and Mrs. Cline collided. Both cars were badly damaged. T. D. Miller, 32, Santa Ana, was injured yesterday afternoon as cars operated by Oscar Hammersten, 31, Balboa, and Pauline Hunt, 23, Santa Ana, collided on West First at Newhope streets. Vernon Dougherty, 26, Norwalk, reported his car was damaged at 3 a. m. yesterday when it struck a cow, as he was on route home.

Paul Procht, about 11, Costa Mesa, was riding his coaster wagon on Santa Ana avenue, Costa Mesa, last evening, when a car driven by William Butterfield, 43, Santa Ana, struck him. Paul was but slightly injured.

Kenneth Hammontrout, 11, and Charles Handy, 54, Costa Mesa, were injured as Handy's car struck a tree Saturday night on Newport road at 18th street, Costa Mesa. Handy said he was attempting to let faster traffic by when he sideswiped the tree. L. G. Mable, 35, San Francisco, and Robert Amshray, 29, Corona, escaped injuries as their cars collided yesterday four miles east of Olive. At Main and First, here, Saturday morning, cars driven by Enrique Rosales, Los Angeles, and Emory Tibbets, Santa Ana, collided. Tibbets was given a ticket for using faulty brakes. Contractor Jules Margaret. The doors of a small adjoining room were thrown open and there stood a beautiful Christmas tree, twinkling with lights, its branches bending under packages in gay wrappings.

There were gifts for everyone, and when they were opened Bob was astonished at the amount of time and money Pearl John must have spent on them. The stir of excitement and pleasure over the gifts, however, could not counteract the icy effect of the attitude of the older members of the family. Soon the young people began to think about getting down from the mesa, most of them, even the storm as an excuse to leave.

The last automobile load of departing guests had begun weaving its way through the blanket of snow, and Bob and Betty still stood beside Pearl John in the open doorway, waving a last farewell, when Angelique joined them. She and Ramon were to stay until the next day.

"Where is Ramon?" she asked. "I want to know what time he plans to leave in the morning. Still snowing, isn't it?" She frowned at the falling flakes.

"We'll start as early as we can get away," answered Ramon behind her. "At the rate this is coming down, it won't take long for the canyon to become impassable. Well, your party was a grand success, Pearl John, even though something of a strain, I fancy, for your brothers and aunt."

"You think the others did have a good time?" asked Pearl John eagerly. "It took a lot of persuading to get the family to let me do this, and if it didn't go all right, I should feel sorry."

"It was lovely," Betty told him. "And Ramon and I had a grand time, too," added Angelique, smiling at Vasquez. "Didn't we, Ramon? We are both awfully glad to know Betty and Bob."

"That's right," Ramon answered. "For one, shall always remember this Christmas on Thunder Mesa."

"Shouldn't we all go to blow out the candles on the Christmas tree?" suggested Betty. "It's proper to make it a sort of ceremony, you know."

At her suggestion, they tramped back down the hall to the small room where the lights on the tree were beginning to gutter. Long shadows already had taken possession of the room, and the greenery, hanging from the walls, seemed strangely out of place.

"Queer how this old house reassures itself so quickly," thought Bob, glancing about the room. "The music and guests have been gone only a few minutes, and here is all the strangeness of the place again." He dropped back a step beside Betty and said softly, "We'll go down with Ramon and Angelique in the morning if we can't go any other way."

She nodded and moved away toward Ramon. The next instant there was a sharp cry, and Ramon was motioning the girls to stay back.

"What is it?" Pearl John asked, pushing forward.

Then they all saw. Under the Christmas tree sprawled the still body of Pearl Sam, a crude knife of black obsidian in his throat.

ORANGE COUNTY FARM BUREAU MEETING OPENS

Hundreds of Orange County Farm Bureau members today flocked to the second annual convention of the organization, which opened at 10 a. m. in the Garde Grove Women's clubhouse in Garde Grove.

Opening of the convocation, presided over by Dian R. Gardner, head of the county bureau, was preceded by meetings of 13 different departments that are important bureau divisions.

Shortly after Gardner bange the initial gavel, he introduced Vo T. Ellsworth, one of the California Farm Bureau Federation research directors, and W. F. Eldredge, chairman of the Southern California Farm Bureau.

These two state officials were among other notables who began discussion of various important resolutions that were adopted two weeks ago at the state and national farm bureau conventions in Pasadena.

While the action by the county organization on these resolutions some time this afternoon, will be one of the main features of the session, the decisions reached by the various departmental member will shape policies of farmers and growers in this vicinity during 1937.

The various departments held meetings at 8:15 a. m. today, included the citrus, dairy, walnut, avocado, lima bean, sugar, bee, vegetable, home, poultry, member ship, 4-H clubs, beekeepers and forestry departments.

Another important item on the afternoon agenda will be the submission of the new by-laws of the farm bureau for ratification.

kel's sedan and a light truck operated by an unidentified person, collided Saturday night at Fifth and Minter, without injuries.

The HOLIDAY MYSTERY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOB GRAHAM, young fire salesman, driving on a lonely road in New Mexico, is halted by an accident to his car. Strangers offer to take him on. They are RAMON VASQUEZ and ANGELIQUE ABREYA, on their way to the Christmas party at the de Forest hacienda, "Thunder Mesa."

"Here I start out to sell tires, and instead I find myself dancing with you in a house that's as queer as they make them," Bob told Betty.

"I feel as though at any minute I'd roll out of bed and wake up, he told her, as they circled in a slow waltz. "Here I start out to fight snow all Christmas Day in order to sell an order of tires, and instead I find myself up here on this mesa, dancing with you in a house that's as queer as they make 'em."

"I've had the same impression," she answered—as though all this were something that couldn't actually happen. "But you seem real enough."

Ramon Vasquez claimed Betty for his partner and put an end to the conversation. Bob walked away to a secluded window-seat to watch the gay picture. Here, to his surprise, he found Professor Shaw peering at the dancers much as he might examine some scientific phenomenon.

"Why aren't you out there stepping it up with some pretty girl, Professor?" Bob asked jokingly. "Oh? Oh, you!" The professor turned with a start. "Dancing? Not at my age. Besides, I'm finding other things that are more interesting. Look!" He pointed at Angelique, standing alone in the hallway opposite them. She was watching Ramon and Betty dance, and the expression on her dark face caused a sudden chill to run up Bob's spine. The fur and claws in Angelique's makeup were plainly visible in that unguarded moment.

DANCING was soon in full swing, and the soft lights and provocative Mexican music lent a dreamy unreality to the scene. Bob spoke about it to Betty.

"I'll say! Remember I have the first dance. I can hear the Mexicans tuning up in the living room. Pretty slick having an orchestra right on the place, isn't it?"

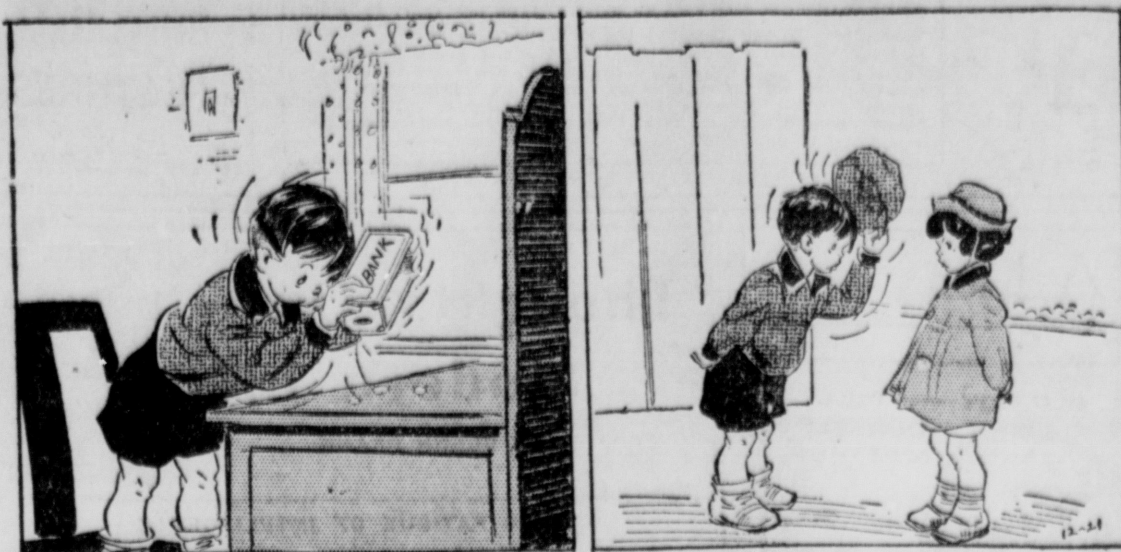

He enlisted the aid of Ramon, Angelique, and Betty, and for another hour they all worked hard to help Pearl John bring the party to a close.

MARRIED WOMEN TEACHING

The Teachers' Association, at their recent convention, went on record as opposing any legislation or discriminatory ruling that would prevent married women from teaching.

This is certainly a wise move on the part of the teachers as they should retain in their ranks only the very best teachers. If the woman teacher decides to get married and can still continue to teach so as to develop the child's mind, character and habits she is performing a great service to humanity by remaining as a teacher and should not be prevented from so doing because of any law or public opinion.

The subject of women working when they are married will be debated next Tuesday evening at the Forum for Political and Economic Education.

The belief that women should not work for pay comes, undoubtedly, from the mistaken idea that there is a limited amount of work to do and work should be shared.

MARITIME STRIKE AND THE CASTE SYSTEM

In the final analysis, the maritime strike is to establish, in a degree, a caste system.

The strikers are contending that only those who are members of the union have a right to work and they have the right to determine who may be members of the union. They do not say exactly that the first man hired must have full time before others may have jobs, as some unions do. They do have some rotation of jobs. If they permitted everyone to join, and had full rotation, they would in no way add to their yearly income. The only way they can possibly benefit themselves is by having seniority. Seniority as to who may be members and seniority as to how the work is divided. This, in reality, is establishing a caste system and employees, as a result, are selected not because of efficiency but at the discretion of the union. It is turning the good grace of the union executives into a valuable property that can be dispensed and sold for great power. It is giving them a great asset. It is establishing class. It is a caste system.

Society never makes much progress under a caste system because promotions under a caste system are not based on the merits and efficiency but on favoritism, coercion and power.

The strike is really an attempt to establish in a degree a caste system.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

We are passing through a temporary era that seems to belie Emerson's law of compensation—that everything must be paid for. There are at present two groups that seem to be able to get something and not give an equivalent in return.

The bank laws we have practically always had, permit bankers to loan other people's wealth, get the return for it and give practically nothing in exchange for this reward. They did it from 1913 to 1929 by credit inflation, changing the money values of commodities. Then their credit cracked and they wiped out the savings of many of our best citizens who were honest, hard working and sacrificing. The result of this credit inflation was that we had to start a new system of money that has no specific value back of it.

We cannot, however, blame the bankers for this situation. It is due to the bad banking laws which should be corrected.

Another example of the inconsistency of the rule that everything must be paid for is the food, shelter and indulgences that are received by workers for boondoggling and for direct dole. As long as this lasts, they are getting something for nothing. Of course, it is temporary and eventually must be paid by the suffering and privation of someone. It is a violation of natural law. As Emerson says, "gift is contrary to the law of the universe" and sooner or later nature collects her penalties for violation.

STRANGE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

Even when the solemn and kindly spirit of Christmas should pervade the world, powerful foreign nations literally are striking the flints that we fear may produce the spark that will light another European holocaust.

We are amazed to learn that a nation like Germany, with its cultural background and tradition, should act to participate in a Spanish revolution, or civil war, that is none of Germany's business. However, we suspect there is a reason. And that reason could be none other than the selfishness and greed of Hitler, the "supreme" dictator.

Hitler and his type care not for heart-broken mothers, for hopelessly crippled men, the pain and suffering caused everywhere by war. They care only for the security of their positions. They are the cowards who stand back, hoping to place their blood-soaked talons on additional power and ill-gotten gains.

Perhaps nations at times are in great need of their Hitlers and Mussolinis (and we suspect they frequently are), but surely there is no need in any nation for a man who will drive his people to war against another people with the sole purpose of strengthening his own political power.

In Spain Fascism is at war with Communism. Naturally then it is to the interest of both Germany and Italy that the rebels win. But it puzzles us that two nations that have played such an important part in the world's progress, should not be able to see that a move in favor of either faction in another nation is bound to invite a serious and war-like gesture from other great powers. Will this latest move of Germany be the spark that will ignite the keg of political dynamite?

WHAT DOES A LAND OF PLENTY MEAN?

If there is any one statement popular with the masses and which we would all like to believe, it is that this is a land of plenty. If this is a land of plenty, then people are foolish for working. If this is a land of plenty, we have finished all development, all accomplishments and all progress. There is nothing more to be desired—no new improvements, no easier and shorter methods of producing things, no better way of curing human ailments, no chance of developing better understanding.

Of course, the whole statement is an absurdity—misleading, and very confusing to people who do not think things through. It would be what human beings picture of the millennium. What people really mean when they use the expression is that this is a land with more resources and a higher standard of living than any other country in the world. They should say that this is a land of relative plenty. The term that this is a land of plenty should never be used because it is not true. If it were true it would cause an entire change of economics, laws, life and human relations.

It is expressions of this kind that do untold harm to society.

A Day In The Life Of A Lion

It Seems to Me
by
HEYWOOD BROWN

Like the gentleman of the same name to whom he is not related, J. Edgar Hoover has suffered from the power of the press. The press greets and the press takes away. Newspaper praise is generally overdone, and, accordingly, the reaction when the pendulum swings is also a shade excessive.

All the evidence I have seen indicates the big G-man let his foot slip in the Brunette case. Circumstantially, J. Edgar was guilty of a galloping attack of headlaze. It would seem as if the young man wanted by the law could have been captured without entailing a million dollar production.

But fame has gone to many heads and the fictional concept of the G-man as the completely insulated individual will hardly stand the test of reality. In wanting to see his name in the papers Hoover is only human. It seems to me that discussion of his exploits and blunders should always keep one eye on that salient fact. In other words, the man is a mixture of merits and foibles.

Both Good and Bad
I think that the record of the G-men is a good one. They have been successful in catching up with some of our most famous criminals, and law and order have gained several laps on the under-world.

It is even probable that the ballyhoo was useful in the beginning. I don't know where the blame lies, but it is true that an age existed in which the bad men were unduly romanticized. Mostly the motion pictures were blamed, and the tabloids also took the rap. This, I think, is an incomplete indictment. After all, there is something in popular psychology which leans toward the outlaw. This tendency existed long before pictures began to move or tabloids screamed. Picturesque literature has been with us from the beginning of time. Robin Hood remains more popular than any sheriff sent against him.

And so it was a useful stunt to switch the balance of the scales to make the hunter a hero and the quarry somewhat ratty. Just how far J. Edgar Hoover consciously contributed to this campaign I do not know. It is my assumption that he had from the beginning the notion that he must not only do his job but sell it as well. It was fortunate then that J. Edgar Hoover happened to be a good press agent. But there is a time for publicity work and a time in which one's knighting can be attended to more quietly. In my estimation that time has now arrived.

Of course, it is easier to start a train of propaganda than to flag it. Hollywood leaped eagerly on board of the G-man Express, and for many months no one could enter a cinema theater without seeing taxicab chases and the exchange of machine-gun fire. A little of it was very exciting. One picture of that sort furnished Cagney with one of his best roles. If I'm not mistaken that particular film was called directly and simply "The G-men."

Please Cease Firing

But one film followed so hard upon the heels of another that residents of foreign lands could hardly be blamed if they got the impression that a sort of civil war was going on between the G-men, led by General Hoover, and another army under the command of Public Enemy No. 1. This was a slight exaggeration, and it struck here in America as well as having an influence in the foreign market.

Now, of course, it is true that a constant war against crime is being waged, but even if J. Edgar Hoover were a super G-man it would be a mistake to intrust to him more than a single sector of the battle front. As a matter of fact, the present propaganda has tended to simplify the strategy of the campaign beyond all reason. The war can never be won by shooting it out with machine guns, no matter how good the marksmanship of the authorities. The problem is deeper and far more subtle than that. J. Edgar Hoover may catch the public enemy, but until we discover some way to stop the making of these men the end of the conflict will not be in sight.

Wrecking the Wrong Train

There was much which was ironic in the capture of Harry Brunette. The forces of the law almost had to blow down the building before they could lay their hands upon the culprit. Gas and guns and axes were used against the pleasant apartment house in which the bandit lived. It will make a swell motion picture. Unfortunately, it is extremely difficult to attract a public for a picture which might cut far more deeply into crime than the arrest of Harry Brunette. Society will learn in time that it is more reasonable to tear down the tenement in which a bandit is born than to shoot it out with him in the apartment which he can afford after his crimes have been committed.

That is why I would like to see some soft-pedaling of the activities of J. Edgar Hoover and his associates. Too much publicity has been devoted to their particular sector. They have become the United States Marines of the war against crime. It is time to turn our attention to the engineers. It may be less exciting to clear

In school today Miss Kitty was telling us about Christmas, saying, "Some people seem to think that Christmas exists just for them to get all the presents that they can induce people to give them, but that is the wrong attitude entirely. The real Christmas is a spirit, a spirit of good will towards everybody, and the people who injoy it most and get the most out of it are the ones who give and not the ones who expect. You have all heard the saying that it is more blessed to give than to receive, but I wonder if you all have a clear idea of what it means. All who think that they understand its meaning will raise their hands, she said."

Which everybody did, and Miss Kitty said, "Good, then I will call for a few practical examples illustrating how it is more blessed to give than to receive. Who will give me the first example?" she said.

Which Puds Simkins waved his hand, saying, "I always start to save up my money about 2 months before Christmas so I can give other people Christmas presents, but no matter how many people give presents to they always give me just as good ones back, and generally better."

I'm afraid too many people give presents with the expectation of receiving better ones in return, Miss Kitty said. But it's probably better than expecting to receive without giving anything. Perhaps someone can give me a better example, she said.

Me raising my hand and saying, "Once there was a famine and only one man had a loaf of bread, and he gave it all away to his starving friends without even keeping one slice for himself, and he didn't have any idea it was poisoned till all the ones that had received it got sick, but he didn't."

Mersey what a far fetched example, however, no doubt the gentleman had the best of intentions, so let us go on to the arifmetic period, Miss Kitty said.

THE FATIGUE OF INTELLIGENCE

It is not easy to be intelligent about public issues in this generation. Emotionalism and over-simplified judgment are the easy ways in a time like this.

We are presented with sharp alternatives. Unless we join a gang and carry a banner we are likely to be very lonely.

It is hard, as Max Ascoli says, to be citizens of great countries or to live through great events; life would be far easier if we were living off the main roads of history.

Those of us who are in the middle years have lived through a world war and may be living between two world wars, and we have seen and are feeling every social and political institution we have known stressfully challenged.

All the major trends of Christian civilization and capitalism are reaching a point of reckoning. Choose ye this day whom ye will serve seems to be the watchword of the hour.

Be a collectivist! Be a capitalist! Fight for perquisites for the masses!

Fight for rights of the individual! Beat the drums for a planned society!

Beat the drums for free enterprise!

We can choose either alternative blindly and stop thinking and find peace of mind.

We can "follow the leader" in one of these fields of policy and let him do our thinking for us.

That's the easy way.

It is hard to be intelligent in a generation that wants simple solutions.

But intelligence is the only hope.

OUR CHILDREN

SHAVING

Augustus John was a pleasant, intelligent pupil in the ninth year of elementary school—a high school freshman, really. We noticed that he was losing his cheerfulness, didn't smile easily and often, didn't go half way to meet a task any more.

At the same time we noticed that his face was covered with a fuzz, thicker than the fuzz on a peach, and more feathery. "That boy ought to be shaved," said one teacher to the other. "Wonder why he doesn't?"

The answer was not long in coming. The very day the teachers had wondered about that shaving Augustus John's mother came to school. "I just can't get along with Augustus John another minute. His father shaves him and I'm left to fight it out with him. He wants to shave and I won't have it. I'm afraid it will give him a coarse beard that will bother him for the rest of his life. He's only fourteen."

"Almost fifteen," said the Head. "Almost fifteen." He needs a good shave this minute, and if you take my advice you will take him, or better, send him to a good barber and have the job well done. Then make him a present of a safety razor and let him make the best of it."

"But he is too young."

"It isn't his age he is shaving, begging your pardon. It is his beard. It is making him very uncomfortable. The girls are smiling and the other boys are grinning behind his back, and he knows it. He is becoming very irritable and that is far worse than anything a shave might do him."

"It will hurt his skin. I have taken such trouble to keep his skin perfect. There isn't a boy in town with a finer skin than Augustus John has."

"Tight. And there isn't a boy like his, either. Let the boy shave. If you don't he will soon take the business into his own hands and that will make a breach between you. You will find it cheaper in many ways to let the boy shave. He shaves when he needs to, not at any other time nor for any other reason. He can't wait for his birthday, you know, once the hair starts to grow."

"All right, if he must he must. You are not very sympathetic."

"Yes, I am. I am very sorry for a mother who feels she is losing her little boy. But I think that she will be glad to see her son growing into a man, beard and all. After all she wouldn't want him to stay a child forever. Or would she?"

"No, I wouldn't. He can shave. I'll add to his allowance and tell him to go to the barber this afternoon. I hope he won't cut him."

"Don't worry. Send him to Old Jimmy. He's an expert, and he will give that lad some good advice along with the shave."

It is very embarrassing for a boy to have fuzz on his face. Give him a safety razor. Show him how to use it and don't make a tragedy of a boy's growth. Rejoice and make him feel that you do. (Copyright, 1936, The Bell Syn., Inc.)

THE KING'S GOOD FAITH

Editor, Register:

In your editorial comment on my article in relation to the King's abdication and farewell, you assert: "He contends that King Edward was removed because he was too much interested in the common people—was too democratic."

While that was one of the assigned probable grounds of objection, yet the motives for opposition to the King may have been as various and extensive as human perversity. Objections to Mrs. Simpson's family standing could not have been advanced in good faith, for if English genealogical tables may be relied on, Mrs. Wallis Simpson had a Warfield ancestor with William the Conqueror at the battle of Hastings, in the 11th century, and, therefore, her known ancestry precedes by some centuries the founding of the Houses of Hanover and Windsor, the origin of the present English dynasty.

It may be that one of the reasons for royal and cabinet dissent was that they visualized Mrs. Simpson, when the wife of the king, in the course of her sparkling conversation, remembering the land of her birth, naively asking her husband: "When is England going to pay its war debts?"

And the inference arises that English nobility and aristocracy, never famed for exemplary conduct, have not recently experienced a moral exaltation which impels them to view with horror the giving of a present by the king to a woman who has not yet received her final decree of divorce.

Further you state "The King was perfectly willing to take $125,000 from the poor to buy a present for a woman who did not yet have a divorce." It would be interesting to know how the newspapers gained information as to the exact cost of the necklace. Certainly neither the King nor the royal jeweler disclosed the sale price of any article so purchased; and we may safely infer that while the recipient of kindly favor Mrs. Wallis Simpson was not carrying on clandestine correspondence with any American newspaper editors or publishers, and thereby disclosed the value of the jewels, assuming she knew the cost thereof.

The only basis for the estimated cost of the jewels, is that it is well known that certain rich women in the United States and in England occasionally appear at the opera, each exhibiting a million dollar "display of ice"—to employ the vernacular of journalism—so it was considered within the range of probability that the alleged kindly present cost in excess of $100,000.

As to the money for the gift having come from the poor, it may be admitted that one of the sources of royal revenue in England is the poor widow and orphan. One need only instance the payment of $40,000,000 inheritance tax within the year paid by one poor family in England—leaving the widow and orphan destitute, except for a beggarly $50,000,000.

Also you state: "King Edward had no suggestions whatever as to how the lives of these poor people could be improved." Obviously a primary requisite for the improvement of the condition of the poor is the disclosure that their condition is distressing. You will recall that in the United States, from 1928 to 1929, when unemployment, bank failures and commercial bankruptcies rapidly increased to unprecedented numbers, the people were told by the President, the administration and the press that the country was enjoying prosperity. You no doubt will now agree that the chief reason for experiencing the worst penic and depression in history was that the facts as to actual conditions were not disclosed when prompt measures should have been taken to prevent impending financial, industrial and commercial ruin.

The King's calling attention to the distress of the poor and declaring something must be done about it, carried with it the necessary implication that whatever action was necessary to relieve such distress had his approval. It was not essential or proper that the King specify the measures to be resorted to. The cabinet and Parliament would have considered it an invasion of their constitutional prerogatives, if he had done so.

Reform measures in Great Britain had been proposed, and included among them was the diversion of a portion of vast estates held by royalty, the nobility, and aristocracy, and their use for cultivation and residence. Another was the reduction in the vast sums paid by the government to royalty and the use of a portion of such sums for the extension of the dole. So apparently the king was not "bluffing" but was actuated by sincerity, one of his characteristics.
